NEW EXPLOSIVE PROVES BIG SURPRISE

Experiments Made on Monitor Puritan Nearly Sends Vessel to Bottom.

W. S. ISHAM IS INVENTOR

Naval Officials Will Examine Closely Into Its Merits and Report.

FORT MONROE, Va., Nov. 15. High explosive tests on the Monitor Puritan, anchored in Hampton roads, today damaged the vessel so seriously that it was necessary to send a hurry call to the Norfolk navy yard to have tugs sent up at once to tow the battered warship to dry dock. The tests were required by a provision in the ordnance appropriation bill by the last session of Congress.

Two explosions were made each with 800 pounds of nitroglycerine gelatine unconfined except as to thin covering of sheet iron. In the first test the high explosive was placed against the side of the after turret of the Monitor, in the second against the side of the vessel just above the water line.

Naval officers and experts present acknowledged that more damage was done than they anticipated.

The first explosion cracked the side plate of the turret, which was eight inches thick and forced it inward about eight inches. A cat and two chickens placed inside in the same position that the gunners and sighter would occupy, were not killed.

Part of Boat Sinks.

The second explosion bent in so badly the 10-inch side plate of the vessel, thereby opening a big hole below the water line, that the rear end of the boat sank to the bottom in less than two minutes after the explosion.

As the Puritan draws 18 feet and was only in 19 feet of water, she did not disappear below the surface. But in a few minutes at least one of the big compartments was almost filled with water which was pouring up from below deck and over the stern.

Until the vessel is dry docked it will be impossible to determine the exact extent of the damages below decks. It was not believed, however, that the armor plate was cracked although it was bent and stove in.

The water was pouring in, it was thought, through holes below the armor belt, which extended 3½ feet under water or through seams caused by the tearing apart of the plates. At the point where the second test was made, the vessel's plate was 10 inches thick.

Of the two explosions the second was the more severe, the hydroglycerin causing the monitor to shake as if she had been struck by a small earthquake and it was even felt slightly by other vessels lying 500 yards away.

Captain Austin M. Knight president of the special naval ordnance board, who remained on the Puritan to discharge the explosive said the shocks were severe. While it was not shown positively that the new explosive, the invention of Willard S. Isham, is more destructive than the present form which does its work from the inside rather than from the outside, it was acknowledged that serious consideration must be given it. Most of the navy officials and powder experts who went down to witness the tests were aboard the tug Wahneta. Among them were Rear Admiral Mason, chief of the bureau of ordnance; Chief Constructor Watt of the navy, Major O'Hearn of the ordnance department, and General Arthur Murray, chief of the coast artillery.

PLAYS HAVOC WITH CHARGES

JUDGE RULES AGAINST GOVERNMENT.

Monetary Issue in Suit Against Oil Company Reduced by $29,134,000.

JACKSON, Tenn., Nov. 15.—The indictment of the United States against the Standard Oil company of Indiana, on the so-called Grand Junction concession charge by which it was sought to have assessed penalties aggregating $30,084,000, to night stands shorn of its magnitude.

The prosecution met reverses in a ruling of Judge John McCall in the United States circuit court late today as to a point of law which in one sweep dwarfed the monetary feature of the issue by exactly $29,134,000, and in general played havoc with the bill of charges as set up by the government.

In short it was the ruling of Judge McCall that within the meaning of the Elkins antirebate law a settlement and not an individual shipment constitutes an offense. In the indictment as returned it is charged that the Indiana corporation committed 1,524 offenses, basing each of the counts on a shipment from the company's refinery at Whiting, Ind. to points in the southeast through Grand Junction, Tenn.

Evidences show only 46 settlements, all by monthly transactions, between the Standard Oil company and the carriers named in the bill within the years covered, 1903 to 1905. Hence, should the defendant company be found guilty on all charges now standing, the maximum penalty possible to be assessed would be $920,000. For each offense the statute provides $20,000 may be taxed. The minimum is $1,000.

Of secondary importance only in that a final ruling was not made, Judge McCall also held tentatively that dates shown in the indictment should conform to the proof tendered.

The rulings came unexpectedly.

Can Aerial Craft Land on Warship? Navy's Next Test

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The next step which the United States navy will take in its study of airships to determine their utility for war will be to test the possibility of an aerial craft landing on a warship. This was indicated by navy officials today who are convinced as a result of Aviator Ely's flight from the Birmingham that the airship will play an important part in the naval warfare of the future. Officers of the navy generally believe its principal usefulness to a fleet will be for scout duty.

The question of landing an airship on a vessel presents many difficulties. Some experts believe a net could be stretched to receive the airship and protect it from turrets and other obstacles, while others believe it to be necessary to equip the machines with pontoons so that they may descend in the water behind the warship.

MOROCCO TO PAY SPAIN $13,000,000 INDEMNITY

MADRID, Nov. 15.—Morocco has agreed to pay Spain $13,000,000 indemnity as demanded by the latter government following the successful Spanish campaign against the Riff tribesmen in the summer of 1909.

Strieby Suggests Remedies for Springs Smoke Nuisance

As a result of a lecture delivered last night by Professor William Strieby of Colorado College on "The Smoke Nuisance and Its Abatement," before the Colorado Springs Real Estate exchange, it appears probable that steps may be taken by that organization, in conjunction with other civic organizations in this city, to prevent the pollution of the air in the Pikes Peak region with smoke. The meeting last night was open to the public and a number of people took advantage of the invitation to learn about the matter. Strieby's lecture, while dealing somewhat in technicalities, was clear to everyone and when he had finished, more than one person came forward to state that his eyes had been opened to a condition existing in Colorado Springs which he had heretofore overlooked. The force of Professor Strieby's arguments was increased by a number of stereopticon views, taken in this city, and showing plainly various sources from which the air in this vicinity is polluted.

At the close of the lecture the Real Estate exchange voted Professor Strieby a vote of thanks and President E. W. Kent stated that he hoped the association would not allow the matter to drop now that it has been brought forcibly to its attention.

In the beginning of his lecture Professor Strieby [illegible] [illegible] method of handling the smoke [illegible] in a number of large cities and later, by means of the stereopticon, showed a number of devices, that are now being used successfully to reduce the amount of, and in some cases, entirely do away with, smoke.

He said in part:

"The railroads are everywhere testing devices for smoke prevention and all now speak hopefully of the ultimate success of efforts in that direction.

"Today the company that installs a new steam plant not only commits an offense against the public if it does not use the means at hand for smoke prevention, but it also makes a financial blunder and will regret its foolishness as the losses impress themselves later on.

"I have omitted from my discussion this evening a very important side of the question of smoke prevention in cities and towns. It concerns the coming use of central plants for furnishing power, gas and heat to the many small users who now struggle with furnaces and heaters and little steam plants.

"There remains for me to make a few suggestions for some practical action in Colorado Springs. Did you know that we had an ordinance for the suppression of smoke in this city. We have indeed. It became effective in 1891. When the city clerk read it to me last night he stopped a moment, after the clause exempting steam users, before [illegible] Professor there [illegible] ordinance. # LOSS OF $2,000 IS CAUSED BY TEJON ST. FIRE

The starting, it is said, from an overheated stovepipe, did approximately $2,000 damage to the stock and building of the Remy Millinery company at 121 South Tejon street early last evening. For a time it appeared as if the entire building would be gutted, and that the flames would spread to other buildings. Hard work by the firemen, however, proved successful, and the flames were extinguished after about an hour's fight. Mrs. S. A. Remy, who for the last 10 years has been an importer and designer of millinery, is proprietor of the store. It could not be learned last night how much insurance is carried on the building and stock. Most of the loss sustained will be on the stock.

The fire was first discovered by a passerby about 6:30 o'clock. At that time it had apparently been burning for some time, and by the time the alarm was turned in, and the firemen had reached the scene, the flames had gained considerable headway.

The store was locked, and the firemen were forced to break down the door to gain access to the building. Because of the nature of the stock on hand, mostly cloth goods and millinery trimmings the flames made rapid headway, and were accompanied by a heavy, pungent smoke, which made it difficult for the firemen to work. Several streams of water soon put out the flames, but it was some time before the store room was cleared of smoke so that an examination of the damage done could be made.

According to the firemen, there was approximately $3,000 worth of stock in the room, and at least two-thirds of it was destroyed. The stove and the overheated pipe from which according to the firemen, the fire originated, were located near the center of the store.

From a distance the smoke from the fire gave the appearance of a big conflagration, and hundreds of people were drawn to the spot, thinking that some of the larger buildings in that section were burning. As is the case in any fire in the downtown district, the big fire engine stationed at headquarters responded to the alarm, and was steamed up ready for action. There was a good force of water from the hydrants, however, and it was not necessary to use the engine.

E. B. SIMMONS IS GEN'L SEC'Y

COUNTY TREASURER IS OFFICER Y. M. C. A.

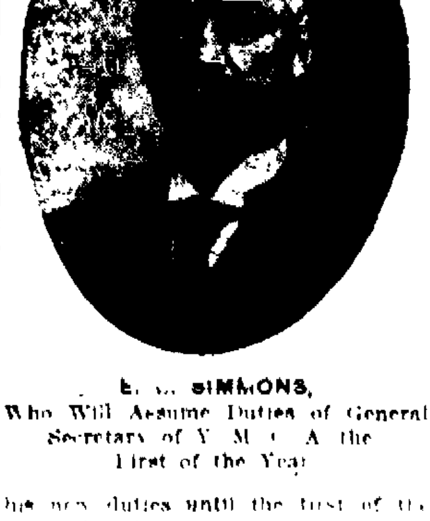
Succeeds C. B. Hall—Directors Also Made A. T. Jones' Member Board.

E. B. Simmons, for four years treasurer of El Paso county, was appointed general secretary of the Colorado Springs Y. M. C. A. at a directors' meeting held Monday night. Mr. Simmons takes the position left vacant by the resignation of Charles B. Hall who is now engaged in Sunday school work in Chicago. He will not assume his new duties until the first of the year when his term as county treasurer expires.



E. B. SIMMONS,
Who Will Assume Duties of General Secretary of Y. M. C. A. the First of the Year.

At the same directors meeting Asa T. Jones was elected a member of the board.

The directors have planned in addition to the regular social events and gymnasium work, a series of talks by prominent Colorado Springs business and professional men. Lectures on the best methods of conducting the real estate business banking abstracting, salesmanship and other business topics will be discussed. Several prominent physicians are to give talks on hygiene together with physical culture talks for boys.

Special socials every other Thursday night and musical programs every Thursday night, will be held during the winter.

CATHOLIC SOCIETIES AT COLUMBUS, O., IN 1911

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 15.—The American Federation of Catholic societies today strongly reaffirmed its position against the divorce evil and pledged [illegible] [illegible] against the white slave traffic.

Columbus, O., was selected as the next convention city.

Victor L. Berger, the first representative of the Social Democratic party to sit in the Congress of the United States. Berger was elected over William H. Stafford, Republican, in the Fifth district at Milwaukee, Wis. Mr. Berger has been the leader of the Social Democratic movement for 20 years, and is one of the chief figures in the party in this country. Through the years of his leadership he has been a practical politician and has ruled his followers absolutely, brooking no opposition.

DID 33 MINERS DIE BEFORE EXPLOSION?

State Mine Inspector Makes Startling Claim Concerning Delagua Disaster.

DENVER, Nov. 15.—"They would have found 33 dead men in the Delagua mine even if there had been no explosion," said State Coal Mine Inspector John D. Jones today when he returned from the scene of the disaster.

"I am satisfield that 33 miners found in the first and second west entries were suffocated by smoke and died at least one and one-half hours before the explosion.

"If the legislature four years ago had passed a law according to my recommendation requiring stone, concrete or other noncombustible stoppings in crosscuts these men could have saved themselves. The flames ate through the wood crosscut and they were trapped.

"I have not completed my investigation," continued Mr. Jones. "I am going back to Delagua."

MINUS PROPELLER, LINER IS HELPLESS 600 MILLES AT SEA

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The big Hamburg-American liner Cheruskia is creeping painfully along under sail about 600 miles east of the Bermudas with her propeller gone according to a report to the navy department. She was under way from the Persian gulf bound for New York when the accident occurred. She reported she had lost her propeller on October 28 and had been making about 14 miles daily under sail on a southwest course trying to cross the track of the Hamburg-American steamers from Europe to St. Thomas.

The United States steamship Wheeling on November 11 spoke her but owing to her small size and scant coal supply was unable to tow the big liner which had already broken all of her large hawsers in the effort to take a tow from a British steamer nine days previously. When the Wheeling parted company from her the Cheruskia was making good weather. She had four weeks' provisions and the Wheeling supplied some extra food.

The navy department has reported the facts to the Hamburg-American offices in New York and it is presumed the company will dispatch tugs immediately from the nearest port to bring in the steamer.

BARNETT HAS ABOUT DRAFTED REVENUE BILL

DENVER, Nov. 15.—Attorney General Barnett has about completed the draft of a new revenue bill to be presented to the legislature in January next. The bill will provide for a tax commission and a uniform system of taxation. Allen E. Foote head of the International Tax association who lives in Columbus Ohio is expected to visit Denver the latter part of this month and Mr. Barnett stated today that he hoped to have a consultation with him on certain features of the proposed new law.

WEIGHTY MATTERS HANG ON CANVASS

Official Count Will Determine Status of Land Board.

DENVER, Nov. 15.—Pending a settlement by the official canvass of the conflicting claims made by the Democratic and Republican state chairmen of the election of their respective candidates for supreme court justice and attorney general, there are strong hints that the closeness of the race between the two old parties for these offices may finally have to be determined by a contest before the Eighteenth general assembly which convenes in January.

The result on attorney general will govern the makeup of the state land board unless the proposed amendment concerning the land board has been adopted and should become operative before the new terms of officers begin. This board, as now constituted consists of the governor, secretary of state, attorney general and state superintendent of public instruction—four in all.

During the last two years of Shafroth's administration this board has been entirely Democratic. By the election last Tuesday of Mrs. Helen Wixson as state superintendent of public instruction a Republican will be a member of the board and should Benjamin Griffith be declared elected attorney general over John Barnett there will be two Republican members of the body making a tie vote on all questions relating to the land policy of Shafroth's second administration.

Indications since the second day after election have been that Barnett and Griffith are running indeterminately close. Chairman Bradley (Democrat) says Barnett has been elected by about 500 plurality. Chairman McDonald (Republican) is equally sanguine that Griffith has won out by 1,500 plurality. The official canvass of the votes cast throughout the state is now being made by the various county clerks.

Meantime the Democrats have been analyzing the vote in several counties and have begun to suspect irregularities in El Paso, Huerfano, Rio Grande, Costilla and Las Animas. Investigation has been quietly under way for several days and Chairman Bradley believes he has sufficient grounds to allege fraud in the votes of these counties. Just what it is or how far it goes he does not say at this time.

Chairman McDonald does not take any stock in the suspected irregularities. He says he has a suspicion that the Democrats, realizing that they have lost the attorney general and supreme court justice, are seeking to frame up contests against the Republican candidates whose election he claims.

LARGE FIRMS REFUSE TO RECOGNIZE UNION

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Hopes of peace in the garment workers' strike faded today when the large firms refused to hear any proposition that in any way recognizes the union. They said they would not sign any contract that recognizes the principle of collective bargaining.

Commissary stores each with provisions for 300 families will be opened tomorrow morning in the localities where most of the strikers live. An effort is being made to have the American Federation of Labor, now in session at St. Louis, levy an assessment of [illegible] cent per capita on all affiliated unions. This would net the strikers about $3,000.

MORE FIGURES MADE PUBLIC

OFFICIAL TOTALS ON 18 STATE CANDIDATES.

Complete County Count Ends Today—Pluralities About Same Totals Increase.

Official figures on the total number of votes cast in El Paso county for 18 candidates on the state ticket in the recent election were given out last night by County Clerk Shelden.

The figures given below are official, although they are yet to be rechecked. It is believed that there will be but slight differences, if any, in the rechecked totals.

The work of counting will be completed this afternoon. While a number of errors have been discovered in several precincts, the pluralities, it is said, will remain practically the same although the total votes cast will show increases in many instances. The figures given out last night are as follows:

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Arthur Cornforth Is President; Dr. W. W. Arnold Secretary—Show May Be Postponed.

Arthur Cornforth was elected president of the El Paso County Horticultural society last night at a meeting at the home of Dr. W. W. Arnold, the retiring president. Other officers elected are: first vice president, Dr. J. T. Muir; second vice president, Dr. W. W. Arnold, secretary, Fred F. Horn; treasurer, W. W. Williamson, members of executive board, J. F. Lilly and Ed Pierce; schedule committee, Fred Horn and Ed Pierce. The report of the treasurer showed that the reserve fund of the society would have to be drawn on for current expenses.

The society discussed the postponement of its exhibit until later in the year in order to secure exhibits of fruits and dry farming products.

The society also passed a resolution of condolence on the death of the wife of a former president of the society, F. Humphrey.

CANAL WILL BE DONE BY DEC. 1, 1913

President Taft Expresses H Amazement at What Has Been Accomplished.

EXPERTS APPROVE OF WORK

Members American Institute of Mining Engineers Back From Inspecting Out.

PANAMA, Nov. 15.—The Panama canal tenders and to get the machin- 1913. This information was given to President Taft today while inspecting the famous Gatun dam. The official date of the opening remains January 1, 1915. Lieutenant Colonel Goethals desiring one year in which to train the canal tenders and to get the machinery working smoothly.

In addition, it was announced by the colonel that the report that President Taft's visit was the forerunner of a request for another $100,000,000 from Congress was unfounded.

The canal will be completed within the $375,000,000 already authorized.

The President expressed amazement at the work accomplished since his visit in February, 1909.

Engineers Approve.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15. Approval of the way in which the Panama canal is being constructed is given by more than one hundred members of the American Institute of Mining engineers, who returned to New York today from the canal zone.

The institute chartered a steamer for the trip, which occupied two to five days. Of the 120 members who inspected the canal almost all of them signed a report which was given out on their return.

"The present plan of the lock canal is clearly practicable," says the report "and the best in our judgment that could be devised under the conditions imposed.

"A canal at a lower level and especially at sea level is virtually out of the question," the report continued, "since one cannot estimate its cost or guarantee its satisfactory completion and maintenance at any cost. Even if completed," says the report, "a sea-level canal would be inferior to the present lock canal by reason of its necessarily narrow and tortuous channel and its liability to many disturbances from which the lock canal will be comparatively free. It is added that there is no reason for any anxiety as to the stability of the great Gatun dam.

"We are unanimous in our praise of the manner in which sanitation, excavation, transportation and construction are performed with rapidity, skill and economy," the report continues. "A spirit of loyalty, emulation, industry and pride seem to animate employes and officials alike."

Among those in the party of engineers were Dr. Henry S. Drinker, president of Lehigh university, and David G. Miller of Denver.

REPORT ON NATIONAL BANKS ABOUT DEC. 1

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The condition of the 7,200 national banks of the United States will be revealed about December 1 in the reports called for by the comptroller of the currency two days ago. They will reflect the condition of the banks at what is regarded as probably the critical time of the year. Many officials of the treasury department believe the banks will be found to have been fortified to meet the exigencies of the autumn months.

Gradual Drop in Food Prices Must Be Expected by Public

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—J. Ogden Armour said today the whole tendency in the prices of stock yards products was towards a lower schedule. He also said the descent would be gradual and warned the public from too hastily accepting the belief that a drop from the highest to the lowest prices was due. "The packers' prices to the retailers are based entirely on what we have to pay for the live animals," said Mr. Armour. "Generally speaking, prices are lower and I believe they are working towards a still lower level. The present situation is the result of the enormous corn crop and of previous high prices that stimulated everybody to raise livestock.

"The public is getting the benefit of present conditions and should get further benefit as the increased supply of live stock reaches the market.

"The recent high prices of meats and packing house products cannot be attributed in any way to the packers nor to any combination of persons or firms engaged in the packing house industry. It has been due to conditions that developed from a scarcity and a high price for corn which is the basis of the supply of livestock.

Packers Welcome a Reduction.

"Conditions in livestock raising are bigger than any packer or set of packers. The packers welcome lower prices. Our prices are based on what we have to pay for livestock and the sooner the people and the world at large realize that the better it will be for everybody."

A decline in prices at the stock yards was followed by a reduction of fresh meats and staples. Commission men here today predicted lower prices still on everything except eggs, which, they say, are high and going higher.

The following shows some of the reductions here in the last week:

Sugar, this week, 5 cents; last week, 5½ to 6 cents.

Flour, barrel, this week, $6.75; last week, $6.90.

Pork, this week, 16 to 22 cents; last week, 20 to 32 cents.

Lamb, this week, 17 cents; last week, 19 cents.

Chickens, this week, 12½ cents; last week, 15 cents.

Beef, this week, 10 to 18 cents, last week, 12 to 21 cents.

The decline since the first of October is from 50 to 75 cents on cattle in the bulk, and the market in general is 50 cents lower than it was a week ago. Hogs have dropped from $9.65 a hundred weight on October 18 to $7.82½.

Coast [illegible] Lower.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 15.—Although the local market prices are still governed by the eastern prices, the present tendency is toward lower prices. This is especially manifest in pork, as lard has dropped [illegible]

WANT TREATY SET ASIDE

Chinese Will Appeal to Great Britain and Their Own Country Regarding Opium Traffic.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—What is described as a "monster appeal" is being drawn up by the Chinese, urging Great Britain to abrogate the treaties with China which permit British interests to engage in the opium trade. Word to this effect was received here tonight by the International Reform league from its field secretary in Pekin the Rev. Dr. E. W. Thwing. The petition will be submitted simultaneously to the British and Chinese governments.

It is charged that the existence of the treatise in question afford legal excuse for British and French citizens to engage in the traffic in China.

Countess Tolstoi, Despite Her Serious Illness, Joins Husband

TULA, Russia, Nov. 15.—Count Leo Tolstoi is suffering from bronchitis and, owing to a high fever, is in an extremely weak condition. A message from his daughter Alexandra, who is nursing him at Astapova, giving this information adds that the physicians say no immediate danger threatens.

Tolstoi suffered from a severe attack of bronchitis in the winter of 1902 and as a result was susceptible to the disease again when he exposed himself to a long journey in the cold and rain.

The house of the station master at Astapova is quite comfortable and the patient is receiving skillful attention at the hands of Dr. Makovetsky and another physician, in addition to the care of his daughter.

According to the diagnosis of the physicians, Tolstoi is suffering from a catarrhal inflammation of the lower lobe of the left lung. His heart action is good. The maximum temperature today was 102, falling at times to 99, which is practically normal, pulse 104, dropping to 90; respiration fair. The physicians add that expectoration and diuresis are sufficient and that the patient has enjoyed tranquil sleep, is in good spirits, and is resting quietly. Altogether this is considered a satisfactory report particularly in view of the high temperature which was maintained yesterday and the symptoms of mental distress which Tolstoi was said to have developed.

Joined by Countess.

Countess Tolstoi, after the first shock caused by her husband's abandonment of his home and family, displayed astonishing energy this morning and insisting upon being taken to the count. Accompanied by her sons and Count Vladimir Tchertkoff, who formerly was Tolstoi's representative in England she proceded to Astapova by special train.

The illness of the author brought about the reconciliation between the countess and Tchertkoff whose embittered feelings in recent months have caused Tolstoi much anguish. Count Tchertkoff was summoned by telegraph to Yasnaya Pollana where he joined the countess and her sons. Tolstoi himself in a letter had expressed a desire for Tchertkoff's presence.

The differences between the countess and Tchertkoff arose over Tolstoi's literary legacy. Tchertkoff had collected a large quantity of unpublished material, copies of Hadji Murat, Tolstoi's latest work and other stories, as well as various documents which he had been forwarding for safekeeping to England.

These he intended to offer for free publication in pursuance of the author's wishes. The Countess Tolstoi in behalf of the family, has been insisting that Tolstoi procure a copyright for all his publications the returns from which would serve to aid the very numerous family instead of filling the pockets of the publishers.

Three months ago when the administrative order expelling Tchertkoff from Tula province was repealed, he visited Yasnaya Pollana, but left hurriedly as the countess had peremptorily forbidden him access to the grounds. Tolstoi thereupon visited Tchertkoff on his estate three miles away in Moscow province, in spite of the attempts of the countess to dissuade him.

Serious family misunderstandings ensued and in consequence recent visitors to Yasnaya Pollana have remarked the clouds over the customary serenity of the place.

The health of the countess suffered seriously and a professor of nervous diseases from Moscow visited her several times prior to Tolstoi's pilgrimage.

STRIEBY SUGGESTS

from private houses or steam users? Who in Heaven's name, will make smoke, then, since we can't burn the dead leaves?

"Why allow certain people to work injury to all their neighbors or to the whole community and to drive away our tourist friends by creating a lot of smoke? We strictly prohibit other nuisances—noises, offensive odors, unsanitary conditions. Cannot we justly protect ourselves from smoke? Even if it costs the smokemaker or ourselves something, we should take reasonable measures for relief.

PROFESSOR WILLIAM STRIEBY,
Of Colorado College, who delivered strong speech on the smoke nuisance last night.

"That ordinance ought to be galvanized into life and some new backbone be added to it. Let us make it require as much as we think we ought to have, or better, as much as we believe we can enforce. Doubtless the only way to accomplish anything in smoke abatement is to arouse public sentiment. The ordinance should prohibit the production of dense gray or black smoke. This is the gist of almost all the ordinances that have come to my notice. Someone should be made a smoke inspector and should be held responsible for reports of all offenders. Fines should be imposed and collected without fear or favor. Other measures also should be adopted. Every new steam plant should be compelled to put in smoke-preventing devices. In all cases of extensive repairs to smoke-making plants the smoke preventers should be put in. Users of steam plants small and large which have sooted us in the past should be made to use such care in their working as to give little offense—even if it costs them a little more money to do it.

"We should compel the railroads to equip their yard engines with smoke-preventing devices or to burn smokeless fuel, such as coke or anthracite or crude oil. We should enforce careful firing of all locomotives within the city limits, especially those that remain long at stations or in the rail road yards. Much can be done in this line by conference with the managers of the railroads that pass through the town.

"The time has come when without injustice to any, without undue sacrifice for individual or associations, and with the greatest benefit to the community, the greater part of the smoke nuisance can be done away with. Only our own apathy stands in the way."

Following the meeting it was announced that the street railway company is at the present time installing a smoke-consuming system at an expense of $15,000.

PASSENGERS AND CREW OF WRECK ARE STRANDED

CORDOVA, Alaska, Nov. 15—Eighty-three persons, comprising the passengers and crew of the wrecked steamship Portland, which was beached in the mouth of Katalla river Saturday, are stranded on Katalla island. The storm, which broke soon after the passengers were landed from the wrecked vessel, is raging with increased fury and all efforts to go to the aid of the marooned passengers have proven unsuccessful.

There are few people living on the island and the food supply is small. It is feared that if the passengers and crew of the Portland are not taken off soon they will be forced to undergo great hardships, owing to the failure of the food supply.

The steamship Alameda tried for 12 hours to enter the storm-swept harbor, but was finally compelled to give up the attempt and turn back. The telephone line, the sole means of communication with the island, went down late today and the stranded passengers are entirely cut off from the outside world.

The government has been appealed to for aid, requests having been made for a revenue cutter to be sent to Katalla at once to take relief to the storm-bound people.

The death of Mr. Patten's brother, George, from tuberculosis a couple of months ago is ascribed as furnishing him the reason for making his large donation to fight insidious diseases of all sorts.

FLEET REACHES ENGLAND

TORQUAY, England, Nov. 15. The first division of the American fleet of sixteen battleships that will make a two months' visiting cruise of French and English ports in the English channel arrived today and anchored five miles from Torquay.

It is expected the division will proceed to Portland harbor, Weymouth on Wednesday.

The first division consists of the flagship Connecticut, Rear Admiral Schroeder commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, the Delaware, the Michigan and the North Dakota.

The fourth division is reported arriving at Brest, France, today.

The second and third divisions were still at sea today.

TRINIDAD, Nov. 15. The new freight tariffs giving Trinidad common rate with Denver and other Colorado points from Chicago, and the east will be effective here November 1.

Aerial Exhibition Begins at Denver at 2 P. M. Today

DENVER, Nov. 15. According to the declarations of the aviators an ordinary snow storm will not interfere with their exhibitions in the aero meet which is scheduled to begin at Overland park at 2 o'clock tomorrow. Brookins, Hoxsey and Johnstone are all here and their air craft are in readiness for the exhibitions. Today has been cloudy, with a slight snowfall and there is promise of light snow for tomorrow.

Johnstone said today that while he and his fellow bird-men expected to make some high flights here it would naturally take them much longer to ascend, on account of the rarefied atmosphere.

DIRECT PRIMARY IS ACHIEVING PURPOSE

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 15.—The best methods of conserving the public interest in the granting of franchises, nomination and convention reforms, and municipal health and sanitation were among the important subjects taken up at today's session of the annual meeting of the National Municipal league.

William Dudley Foulke of Richmond, Ind., was unanimously chosen president to succeed Charles J. Bonaparte of Baltimore.

Louis M. Greeley of Chicago spoke on "The Present Status of Direct Nominations." He reviewed in detail the progress of the movement in all the states and court decisions affecting direct nominations.

"The general result of recent experiences," said Mr. Greeley, "seems to show that where the voters are alert and interested the direct primary will accomplish the purpose for which it was intended—the democratization of nominations, the wresting of control of party nominations from the party bosses or machine."

WOULD PROTECT SEX BY ALLOWING VOTES

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 15.—Women should be able to vote in order to protect their sex industrially," declared Miss Maud Younger of San Francisco, before the American Federation of Labor late this afternoon. The statement was greeted with enthusiastic applause by the delegates.

Miss Younger is connected with the San Francisco wage suffragette convention. Her address was one of the important features of the day, the other being the address of Governor Bradley in which he urged that one-third of the judges and one-half of the lawyers of the country were unnecessary.

Miss Younger was presented to the convention by President Gompers after he had completed the reading of his annual report, and her appearance on the platform was the signal for enthusiasm.

"Male wage earners have two methods of improving their condition," she said, "by unionizing and by the ballot. Women wage earners have but the one means—by forming unions. Women go out of the home and work because they have to, not because they want to. They should therefore be protected with every weapon including the ballot. Women are hard to unionize because all of them have their eyes on matrimony as an escape from toil.

"If the men help the women get the ballot, the women will in turn employ the ballot to help the men.

Caleb Powers, who defeated Elza Bertram, Democrat, in the Eleventh congressional district of Kentucky. Powers was tried three times for complicity in the murder of Gov. William Goebel, but was finally pardoned by Governor Willson. Although Powers ran behind the Republican vote and lost in his own county, Laurel by 150 votes he was elected by the mountaineers, who have voted Republican all their lives. Powers is a protege of Senator William O. Bradley and will be associated with the standpat wing of the party.

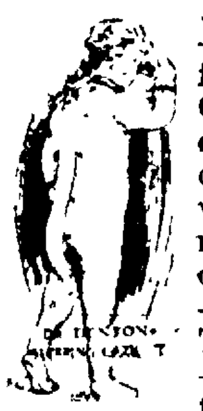
SEE THE DR. DENTON SLEEPING GARMENTS FOR CHILDREN



—They completely cover the body, feet and hands—The value of this feature can not be overestimated. The activity of childhood is limitless. Ordinary bed coverings are kicked loose and thrown off in spite of every precaution. As the temperature drops in the night hours, the child is left exposed to drafts, cold or dampness, and contracts a cold which may run into croup or other acute diseases, or which, at best, reduces the child's vitality, leaving it in a receptive condition toward other forms of illness, and retarding healthy growth.

—The Dr. Denton Sleeping Garments obviate all these troubles because THEY COMPLETELY COVER the little ones.

—The feet are an integral part of the garment, as shown in the illustration. They are made in a special form, with no seam on the bottom, a feature fully covered by our patents, and DISTINCTIVE in the Dr. Denton Garments. The sleeves have deep cuffs which can be turned down over the hands and tied with draw strings.

—Ask to see these garments in our Underwear Section.

VERDICT OF NOT GUILTY FOR SENATOR COOPER

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 15—Robin J. Cooper, charged with the murder of former United States Senator Edward W. Carmack November 9, 1908, was given a verdict of not guilty in the criminal court this morning on recommendation of Attorney General A. B. Anderson. Thus was brought to a close the final chapter in one of the most celebrated cases in the annals of the courts of Tennessee.

In striking contrast to the scenes marking the first trial of this case when the court room was packed almost to suffocation by those eager to hear every word of the evidence, there were only a few persons present. Attorney General Anderson said, "This defendant and Col. Duncan B. Cooper and John Sharp were indicted jointly for the murder of Senator Carmack. The case resulted in the acquittal of Sharp. Col. Cooper and this defendant were found guilty of murder in the first degree. The supreme court affirmed the case of Col. Cooper, but as to this defendant, there was a reversal."

Judge A. B. Hall then stated to the jury that in view of the statement of the attorney general and in view of the fact that no further effort had been made to prosecute the case the jury would return a verdict of not guilty. This was done.

GRADUAL DROP

18 cents a pound to 15. Bacon and ham have fallen off half a cent, but as yet this does not affect the retail price. The price of the Thanksgiving turkey, dressed, is 27 cents a pound, which is two cents higher than a year ago, but the dealers say the grade is higher as weather conditions have permitted the birds to mature better.

Substantial Cuts in South.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 15.—Beef and pork prices are lower on the New Orleans market than for many months. There has been a drop in the price of beefsteaks within the last 10 days of from two to three cents. Fresh pork is selling at a decline of four cents. Chicken and turkey prices are off from three to four cents compared with a year ago. Fresh eggs are 27 cents, five cents lower than last year.

Pork Drops Five Cents.

DULUTH, Minn., Nov. 15.—Reductions in the price of pork, lamb and a few grades of beef have been recorded in the Duluth markets within the last two or three days. Pork has dropped from 23 to 18 cents a pound. Bacon is unchanged, lamb has been reduced from 17 to 12 cents, veal from 14 to 12 cents.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 15.—There has been no appreciable cut in prices of fresh meats and foodstuffs in the Memphis territory. Poultry is 3 cents cheaper a pound than last week.

Canada Follows Suit.

MONTREAL, Nov. 15.—That the Canadian market has followed that of the United States in the decline of prices for meat was indicated by reports of local packers and dealers today. Barrel pork, which was $33 on September 1, now is $26.50; hams have dropped from 22 cents a pound to 16 cents and beef has declined more than a cent a pound.

Consumer Not Benefited.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The reduction of meat prices, reported in various parts of the country, has struck Washington. Wholesaler dealers said today that prices were taking a tumble with indications of sympathetic relief for the housewife along other lines of food supplies.

In the wholesale districts it was said the price of beef had been reduced between four and five cents a pound by the packers. At the same time the price of pork had gone down about three cents.

Hope was held out that mutton and veal and other products of the packing houses would follow in the downward movement. Of veal, it is said that it can suffer quite a decrease and still be expensive eating as it is selling at the highest figure in ten years.

It remains a problem whether the reduction in prices will reach the consumer. Retailers in Washington have not heard of the decrease officially, except as to the price of pork. Beef was selling today as high as ever in the retail shops.

Representatives of Chicago packers are attributing the decrease in prices to the large corn crop. As a result of the crop, they say, the western farmers are overcrowding the market with livestock.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 15.—Foodstuffs in Atlanta show no appreciable decline in price. Retail meat dealers say old time prices prevail on choice beef cuts, but the price of the lower grades of cuts is still high.

Turkeys Cheap in Mobile.

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 15.—Smoked and cured meats were quoted a cent cheaper than yesterday. Turkeys were off 9½ cents per pound compared with the same time last year.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 15.—The decline in the cost of meats and provisions has not reached Louisville. Only one dealer could be found today who announced lower prices—a decline of three cents on the choice cuts of fresh meats.

Eggs Go Up in Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 15.—Pittsburg is waiting for the reduction of meat prices to strike this city. Meat dealers confess that everything points to an early reduction here and the housewives and wage earners are scanning the provision horizon for the first sign of its approach.

The busy hen of west Pennsylvania, however, has decided to take a short rest and is not turning out her usual supply, hence the price of eggs has gone up to 35 cents.

Turkeys Off in Denver.

DENVER, Nov. 15.—The Thanksgiving turkey will be secured by Denver housewives this year at from three to five cents a pound less than she paid for it last year, if she buys it in time.

According to the big retail markets, turkeys will retail around Thanksgiving time for thirty cents a pound, as against last year's price of 35 cents. Chickens, too, are two or three cents a pound lower. But no reduction has been made in beef and pork prices and none is expected at present.

In fact the marketers say they have been selling pork at a loss for several months and recent small reductions in wholesale prices only enable them to break even.

Reductions at Pueblo.

PUEBLO, Colo., Nov. 15.—No reduction in the price of fresh beef is expected here, but there have been big reductions otherwise. Turkeys which sold at 25 cents per pound last year at 27½ cents dressed. Chickens are 17½ cents against 27 cents. Pork is down to 15 cents from 20 and 25 cents. Further reductions are predicted.

St. Louis Easier.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 15.—Prices in most all food products show a downward tendency here. Retailers announced a reduction in pork of 2½ cents a pound today. Retail prices of beef are unchanged yet, but a slump is predicted. Other food products except poultry, butter and eggs are declining slightly.

Milwaukee Happy.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 15.—Food prices in Milwaukee average from 10 to 20 per cent lower than a short time ago. Potatoes are 20 cents a bushel lower and poultry is about 20 per cent lower. Beef, pork and veal prices are about the same as a year ago.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 15.—There has been a drop of about two cents a pound in the prices of all fresh meats in the Omaha market, according to leading packers of South Omaha and a further decline by January 1 of at least 5 cents on pork and almost as much on other fresh meats is predicted. The prices of cured meats have not been materially changed.

Lard Goes Lower.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 15.—A reduction of one cent a pound in the retail price of lard and of from one to two cents a pound in the retail price of the cheaper grades of beef was announced here today.

"You may look for cheaper prices in all kinds of meat soon," a leading dealer said today. "Fancy beef will be the next to come down."

CINCINNATI, Nov. 15.—Meat prices have dropped sharply here, bacon leading with a decline of 5 cents a pound. Other pork products are cheapened and live hogs are selling at $1.25 a hundred less than the prices quoted a few weeks ago. Cattle and sheep and their products show similar declines. Coffee, potatoes and eggs, however, are getting higher.

PREDICT DIRE RESULTS

Freight Traffic Officers Claim Long and Short Haul Clause Will Cause Commercial Paralysis.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 15.—The long and short haul clause of the last federal railroad statute as ruled upon by the Interstate Commerce commission occupied the attention today of the Southeastern Freight association and the Southern Mississippi Valley association in joint conference here.

The assertion was made that the enforcement of this clause would destroy plans it had taken railroads years to formulate and arrange, while some predicted that it would result in commercial paralysis.

DEMOCRATS CONTROL MONTANA ASSEMBLY

Will Name Successor to Senator Carter—Are Assured of 53 Votes.

HELENA, Mont., Nov. 15.—Official counts made today in various close counties of the state insure Democratic control of the next legislative assembly, which will elect a successor to United States Senator Thomas H. Carter.

The official returns give the Democrats 53 votes on joint ballot without Custer county where unofficial returns give the election to W. D. Terrell, the Democratic candidate. Fifty-two votes are necessary to a choice in the election of a United States Senator.

The official count, completed today, in Silver Bow county confirmed the election of one Democratic senator, 11 Democratic representatives and one Republican representative.

A late dispatch to the Democratic chairman stated that Terrell, Democrat, had on the face of the unofficial returns been elected representative in Custer county. The official count will be made November [illegible].

Republicans in Helena tonight admit the election of a Democratic legislature. Senator Carter declined to make any statement for publication.

Miss Inez Milholland, who was recently elected vice president of the junior class in the law school of the New York university. The election was fought with considerable animation, Miss Milholland winning on a straight "vote-for-women" platform. The 10 other young women students of a class of about 110 are of the opinion that the personality of Miss Milholland had more to do with her election than the "cause." Miss Milholland was one of the staunch suffragettes who declared that they would watch at the polls during the recent election and, true to her word, she was on hand early last Tuesday morning at one of the polling places, where she acted as challenger throughout the day.

SHAFROTH NAMES THREE TO REVISE MINING LAWS

DENVER, Nov. 15.—Governor Shafroth today appointed the committee to revise mining laws provided for in the bill of Senator Kenedy of Ouray, passed at the last regular session of the legislature. The committee consists of Dr. Victor C. Alderson, president of the State School of Mines; Dr. John B. Ekeley, professor of chemistry at the University of Colorado, and James Dalrymple, deputy coal mine inspector.

It is said that the Governor has requested this committee to make an investigation of the recent coal mine disasters at Starkville and Delagua and report to him its opinion as to the causes and also recommendations concerning special legislation covering working conditions in the coal mines.

RAILROADS JOIN FORCES IN FIGHTING REDUCTIONS

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15.—An action to prevent the enforcement of the reduction in freight rates over railroads west of the Missouri river was begun today when the Southern Pacific and the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad companies, with 20 other companies, petitioned Judge Morrow of the United States circuit court for an injunction restraining the Interstate Commerce commission from carrying out its order to cut the charges on the hauling of commodities.

The rates will go into effect on November 21.

The petition for the injunction is accompanied by the personal affidavits of E. D. McCormick, vice president of the Southern Pacific company and other officials, in which it is said that under the new order the railroads would lose profits amounting to $1,000,000 a year.

TWO-YEAR TERMS IN ARIZONA TO CONTINUE

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 15.—By holding three sessions today one of them at night, the constitutional convention made excellent progress by the tentative adoption of the judiciary and legislative problems. Both were generously amended. The judiciary proposition as favorably acted upon in committee of the whole provides superior courts in each of the fourteen counties, the salaries ranging from $1,500 to $5,000, according to population. The salary of the supreme court judges was fixed at $6,000.

At the night session an effort to establish the four-year terms for state offices failed, the two-year term prevailing with the residence qualification of five years in the state prior to election. The measure also limits the pardoning power of the governor. The annual payroll of the state as adopted totals nearly $100,000.

The Queen of Roumania, commonly called "Carmen Sylva," who is said to possess the elixir of perpetual youth. This seems to be true, for, although advanced in years, recently she appeared as Venus in a "living picture" performance at the palace, before her admiring subjects. Carmen Sylva is a remarkable woman. She has written books as well as plays and poems. Recently this distinguished queen visited a girls' school and one of the pupils asked her, why she was called "Carmen Sylva." She told her that when she was young she used to stroll in the woods and that her great desire was to be able to sing to the birds. Later on in life she cherished thoughts of these walks and as "Carmen" means song and "Sylva" forest, she took the name of Carmen Sylva as a [illegible] of her youth.

AWFUL FATE BEFELL EARLY EXPEDITION

VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 15.—A mystery of 14 years concerning the fate of the Austrian scientific expedition from the Ship Albatross in the Solomon Islands is cleared up by the finding of the remains of the expedition in the Solomon Islands. The discovery was made by Dr. Northcott Deck of the South Sea Evangelical mission. News of the discovery of the remains of the party in the Albatross was received today by the steamship Zeelandia from Australia.

The expedition in the Albatross was headed by Baron Von Norbeck and included Lieutenant Budick, Midshipman De Beaufort and nine sailors. Dr. Deck found evidences of a massacre on Tatuve Island and from the natives learned the details of the slaughter.

The Austrians, according to the natives' tale, were surprised by the blacks. Baron Von Norbeck was tomahawked by a savage who crept up behind him. The sailors fought off the blacks after several were wounded and made a camp where the baron died. During the night the camp was again attacked and only three of the men escaped. They made their way to the coast without learning the fate of their fellows who fell into captivity. Remnants of remains cast aside after the cannibal feast found near the scene of the massacre leads Dr. Deck to believe that the captives fell prey to the inhuman practices of the savages.

Does It Interest You to Know That You Can Save Fifty Per Cent on Your Dental Bill, Get Better Work and Avoid the Pain?

We are able to give you better work for less money for the following reasons. Our offices in Colorado Springs and Pueblo are the largest and best equipped in the west. We are prepared to treat and do treat a large number of patients. The combined business of these two offices has increased in the last few years until it is now without question the largest dental business in the state. This volume of business enables us to work at a lower price and figure a reasonable profit. This is why we are able to work at from one-third to one-half less than the usual charge, and at the same time maintain the very highest standard of quality. Don't let them charge you an exorbitant fee by telling you the old story that their work is so superior. The facts are that they cannot compete. The average dentist with his small practice must collect an unreasonable fee from each of his few patients to make good while we figure a small profit from each of our many. We have patients by the hundreds who will tell you that our work is the very best, that there is no better at any price. Get in today for one of our free examinations, and let us give you an estimate.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 15.—A telephone message from Rock Springs says that the excitement there over the reported marching upon the town of a band of armed Mexicans has subsided. A patrol of 15 armed citizens will be on duty all night. Monday night 500 men were under arms.

Mexican Troops On Guard.

LAREDO, Tex., Nov. 15.—Everything is quiet along the border in the vicinity of Laredo and there is no semblance of disorder, either anti-American or anti-Diaz. Consul DeBold says that in the event of a disturbance, the Mexican government is amply prepared to cope with the situation. The border is protected on the Mexican side by infantry and cavalry troops.

Political Clubs Prepared.

GAUDALAJARA, Mexico, Nov. 15.—At a meeting of political clubs last night at Sayula, one of the principal towns in this state, those participating passed a resolution that they would be the first to offer their services for military operations in the event of war between Mexico and the United States.

A further resolution was adopted requesting the secretary of war to send instructions to all principal cities and towns in the republic to teach military tactics.

Explains Mexico's Position.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Senor Don Francesco de la Barra, Mexican ambassador to the United States, explained the attitude of his government on the Rodriguez lynching in Texas and the subsequent demonstrations against Americans in Mexico in an address at the Quill club today.

"In former times," he said, "two nations could be plunged into the horrors of war by the simple caprice of a sovereign. Today such a thing would be impossible; the people impose their will and within proper bounds, they are the arbitrators of their destinies. You have lately seen a proof of the beneficial effect of such international policy in the unhappy events that have produced passing disturbances on either side our our frontier.

The manifestation of public sentiment in Mexico, which would have been easily explicable within reasonable bounds, exceeded the limits required by law, but my government acting with the utmost promptness, repressed such unexpected disorders. The American government was not responsible for the awful crime committed, nor is my government responsible for the punishable acts which gave rise to a public manifestation born of a legitimate sentiment.

Aware of Obligations.

"The statements simultaneously made by the secretary of state of the United States and by the secretary of foreign affairs of Mexico show the same sentiment of equity and contain equal promise of an immediate and effective solution of the case. My government has already shown by its prompt action that it is fully aware of its obligations and ready to discharge them consistently with the sovereign rights to Mexico over whose integrity we are very zealous.

"When this has been accomplished, in a sincere spirit of justice, and other legal consequences have been fulfilled the recent incident will be a matter of history. But the lesson for the future will be a profitable one without altering in the slightest the friendship between the two countries and the two governments."

Senor de la Barra explained that it had not yet been definitely established whether Rodriguez was a Mexican subject, but that this will soon be determined by his government.

FORTUNE WAITS FOR WILLIAM S. ARNOLD

Former Cripple Creek Man, Not Heard From in 10 Years, Left $25,000.

DENVER, Nov. 15.—William Stanton Arnold, formerly a bridge builder at Cripple Creek, and who has not been heard from for over 10 years, has been left a fortune of $25,000 by his mother who died over a year ago in England.

Nothing has been learned however of Arnold's whereabouts and if he is not found this month the estate which is made up of cattle farms will revert to his two sisters now living with their husbands in Bressingham, Norfolk, England, the former home of the missing heir.

Arnold, who was fond of travel and adventure, came to America in 1895. Lured by the stories of mining in Colorado, he came west, lived in Denver for a while and then went to Cripple Creek and engaged in bridge building. Some years later he passed through Denver on his was to the Klondike. Nothing has been heard of him since.

Knitted chenille rugs can be made out of old chenille portieres, no matter how worn they are. An old golden-brown one, much stained and dilapidated was quickly raveled and wound into balls then knit on large wooden needles to the desired size. The edge was finished with a coarse shell-stitch in loose crochet. No stains are visible, and the rug is much admired.

A New Remedy For Appendicitis and Gall Stones

Go without your 6 p. m. meal. To eight ounces of pure olive oil add one tablespoonful of La Fave's Reconstructive Remedy and take whole as one dose at 7 p. m. This dose is said to bring all deposits from the gall duct and to relieve the inflamed condition of the appendix after removing same. La Fave's Remedy should be taken in teaspoonful doses four times a day. The above prescription is said to have saved many surgical operations.

NEGRO IS MOVED FOR FEAR OF MOB VIOLENCE

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Nov. 15.—Following threats by a mob to lynch Thomas Williams, the negro suspected of the murder of nine-year-old Marie Smith, the prisoner was removed early today from the local jail to the county jail in Freehold. The mob had been scattered and the streets were comparatively clear.

Williams denies all knowledge of the crime and from official sources, it was learned he had apparently established a good alibi. He is being held without bail for further examination and to await the inquest.

The mutilated body of the Smith child was found in the woods near her home Sunday and Williams, who had been missing since Wednesday last, the day the girl disappeared, was arrested Sunday evening.

Arch Hoxsey, the clever [illegible] aviator, and diagram of the [illegible] drop to earth he recently experienced at the Halethorpe aviation field at Baltimore, Md., in a tiny Wright machine. Hoxsey, with his mind set on breaking the altitude record, started climbing at a steep angle. As his machine faded away in the blue sky, the daring aviator drove it around in wide circles. Each circle took him higher in the air. He had scarcely been up 10 minutes when it was apparent to the spectators that he was in trouble with his motor. A long stream of blue vapor was trailing behind him like the tail of a meteor. The vast crowd was searching the heavens for the tiny biplane when it suddenly shot into sight at a terrific rate. With the front control pointed almost perpendicularly earthward, the machine could be seen dropping. The speed at which it was traveling was almost incredible. The air currents near earth broke his speed and his aeroplane was headed for a forest two miles away. It crashed in among some bushes and was completely demolished, but Hoxsey was uninjured.

MINERS ON STRIKE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 15.—Five hundred union miners and muckers employed on the tunnels of the big Los Angeles 250-mile aqueduct have struck for an increase in wages to cover an advance in the price of meals charged to the men. The strikers are members of the Western Federation of Miners and have the backing of that organization.

Three thousand laborers at work on other parts of the aqueduct are not affected.

All the tiny pieces and crusts of bread should be saved. Their uses are numerous. They can be made into puddings, dressings for meat and fish and excellent griddle cakes. Or if the pieces are dried in a moderate oven, then rolled and sifted they are always ready to cover croquettes, scalloped dishes and many other things.

Marabout trimmings are very effective on soft satins and chiffons.

Kathryn Hutchinson, the actress who is reported to be engaged to marry Howard Gould. They have been seen much in each others company in Paris and it is believed that it was on Miss Hutchinson's account that Mr. Gould gathered a party for a long cruise in northern waters. That trip is reported to have settled the future for Mr. Gould and Miss Hutchinson. It is puzzling to note, however, that although this report seems to be well founded, Mr. Gould's marital status is such that he cannot marry at present. It is true he planned a divorce from Katherine Clemmons but it was never obtained. For four years their dissonances were sounded in public and finally subsided in June of last year when Mrs. Gould was granted a decree of separation with alimony of $[illegible],000 a year. Under that decree neither of them can marry during the lifetime of the other.

Gifford Pinchot Given Permission to Submit Brief

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—President Taft responding to the request of Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester of the United States, and his brother, Amos Pinchot, for permission to submit a brief on the question of issuing patents in the Cunningham Alaskan coal lands claims has informed Mr. Pinchot that he may submit such a brief and advising him to forward it to the executive office before December 1.

Mr. Pinchot was thus informed in a letter authorized by President Taft written by the secretary to the president, Charles D. Norton and made public today. The letter is in reply to a recent communication to the president from Mr. Pinchot and his brother expressing fear that the interior department will aid the patenting of the Cunningham claims. Following is the text of the letter.

"November, 9, 1910.

"Gentlemen: I am directed by the president to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of November 7 and to reply as follows:

"On the first of June last the secretary of the interior invited the attention of the president to the Cunningham coal claims, consisting of 33 coal entries in the Juneau land district of Alaska of approximately 160 acres each and suggested that in view of the unusual character of these claims and in view of the public interest relating to the disposition of these claims the president direct that no final action be taken by the general land office looking to the issuance of patents therein without first advising the president of the action contemplated. Under date of June 6, 1910, the president issued the direction recommended and on June 8, 1910, this order was communicated to the commissioner of the general land office and that official ordered his subordinates in accordance with this directive. The president further directs me to say that if you desire to submit a brief on the question of issuing these patents you may do so and forward the same to this office. He is not advised when the evidence will be submitted to him but he thinks it would be well if your brief was presented before the first of December.

(Signed) Very truly yours,
CHAS. D. NORTON,
Secretary to the president."

Mr. Pinchot's letter to President Taft and the reply of Secretary Norton constitute the only exchange of communications between the White house and the former government forester since executive action dismissing the latter.

GOV. HADLEY TALKS

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 15.—Governor H. S. Hadley of Missouri addressed the delegates attending the thirtieth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor today on "Workingmen's Compensation." His address was the only set speech of the two sessions of the day.

President Gompers continued the reading of his report which he began yesterday afternoon. The other business of the convention was filing of reports by the committees. Before the convention ends, the delegates, according to leaders, will have to decide for or against socialism. Gompers in his report said that politically an invariable problem which confronts the trade union movement is how to take action without binding itself to a hard and fast 'ism,' 'ology' or platform.

Victor L. Berger of Milwaukee, [illegible] socialist congressman-elect, and [illegible] Hayes of Cleveland are leading in the struggle to have the convention declare for socialism. Hayes' friends would like to see him succeed Gompers in the presidency.

46-STORY BUILDING

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Plans have been filed here for the erection of a 46-story office building at the corner of Broadway and Park Place, opposite the city postoffice. It will measure from the street level to the cupola 625 feet, and will cost $7,000,000.

The foundations are already completed and the building will be finished in about a year.

The builder is F. W. Woolworth. The new structure will be 13 feet higher than the Singer tower and will rank as the second tallest building in the world. The architect is Cass Gilbert, [illegible] the New York Custom [illegible] public buildings. [illegible] of the plans is a 100-[illegible] pool in the basement.

BELIEVES SPRINGS CAN GET THE 1912 MEETING

Judge Little, of the County Court, Thinks Next Session of Court Conference May Come Here.

Judge John E. Little of the juvenile court and the Rev. Anna Moore, probation officer, who have been in Indianapolis attending the juvenile court conference of the middle western states, returned to their homes in this city yesterday afternoon. Both spoke in high terms of what was accomplished at the meeting.

As announced recently, Louisville, Ky., secured the 1911 meeting but according to Judge Little, this city has an excellent chance to secure the meeting in 1912.

"Practically everything was arranged for Louisville to get the meeting," said Judge Little yesterday. "In fact Colorado Springs' bid for the honor was not launched until too late. Many of the delegates who voted for Louisville, did so only because they were pledged. Many of them signified their desire to name this city as the next meeting place, and from their conversations, I believe there is little doubt but what the meeting in 1912 will be held here."

MISS LEE AND R. C. HART MARRIED LAST NIGHT

The marriage of Miss Lilah Lee to Robert C. Hart was quietly celebrated last night at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lee, 22 East Espanola street. The Rev. Frank Hale Touret, rector of Grace Episcopal church, officiated. A small party of relatives and friends were present. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Hart left for southwest Texas where Mr. Hart will engage in the fruit and cotton raising business.

The Lee family has maintained a temporary residence in Colorado Springs for some years although their home is in England.

During Mr. Hart's residence here the past two years he has been with the firm of William P. Bonbright and company.

TURKEYS MAY BE CHEAPER THIS YEAR THAN LAST

According to local commission men, turkeys, the mainstay of the Thanksgiving dinner, will be cheaper this year than last, or at the top price no higher. The fowls are not exceedingly plentiful this year, however, already giving promise of bringing from 23 to 25 cents a pound. Chickens are plentiful and cheaper, and all the turkey day necessities will probably be quoted at about the same price as last year.

LARAMIE ELECTRIC CO'S OFFICES ARE MOVED HERE

The office of the Laramie Electric company, which owns the electric railway at Laramie, Wyo., have been removed to this city and are in the Gazette building. Officers of the company are William Storey, Ouray, Colo., president; E. C. Van Diest, Colorado Springs, vice president, and Thomas L. Wilkinson, Denver, secretary.

DUCK HUNTERS ON THE LOOKOUT FOR THEIR GAME

Ducks, which have been delayed on their southward course by the warm weather, are beginning to arrive on lakes and ponds near here, and Springs followers of duck shooting claim that the present weather will make the shooting better than for some years. Prospect lake and several of the reservoirs near the city have been affording some shooting for hunters.

LOTS OF GAS AT PEYTON

John B. Orris, one of the promoters of the Peyton Oil company, which is operating near Peyton, was nearly overcome by gas when he visited the oil well a few days ago. The company has had considerable oil from the boring below 800 feet and reports are that the flow of gas is becoming stronger.

The Care of the Bathroom

The bathroom should be given a daily cleaning and weekly scrubbing. For cleaning the bath tub nothing is better than a solution made by dissolving Gold Dust washing powder in water. Thoroughly scrub and scald tub, basin and closet with the hot suds and pour down the pipes boiling water to which has been added Gold Dust in proportion of two tablespoonfuls of Gold Dust to every gallon of water. Clean the nickel and brass fixtures in bathroom by rubbing with equal parts of whiting and Gold Dust washing powder.

CITY ASSESSOR MAY SOON BE APPOINTED

The fact that the county assessor has cut $600,000 off the assessed valuation of Colorado Springs this year for depreciation may hasten the appointment of a city assessor, according to talk around city hall.

Mayor Avery brought up this phase of the city charter many months ago and it has again come up for discussion through recent conferences regarding the matter of city appropriations for the coming year. Those favoring the plan by which the city would have its own assessor claim that the county's assessment is too low and that many bonds and securities are overlooked. It is further pointed out that the city has no representative on the board of equalization and that its interests would be looked after better if it had. "As matters stand the city has nothing to say about the assessed valuation.

The charter provision covering the appointment of an assessor is as follows:

Section 26: "The Council shall by ordinance provide a system for the assessment, equalization, levy and collection of all city taxes, not inconsistent with the provisions of this charter."

LAUTERMAN PREVENTED FROM VOTING BY DELAY

C. B. Lauterman of this city waited two hours to vote on election day, the delay occurring at Lytle precinct, 20 miles south of the city, and then didn't vote after all. Mr. Lauterman, who owns a ranch in that precinct, went there on election day, accompanied by his wife and a man who was working on his ranch. He arrived there at 12:30 o'clock in the afternoon and found but one judge, W. C. Dockum, at the polls. He was told that they were at dinner. He waited until 2 o'clock when they had not returned, so he drove back to this city without voting. Mr. Lauterman feels that the other two judges, S. A. Giles and F. M. Gustin, did not live up to the spirit of their oath, which requires at least two of them to be at the polls so that voters may cast their ballots at any time during voting hours.

FITZJAMES M'CARTHY, WELL KNOWN HERE, DIES IN ARIZ.

Fitzjames McCarthy, better known throughout the west as "Fitz-Mac," who was well known in Colorado Springs through his connection with a little paper called "Facts," and with The Gazette, died Monday in Phoenix, Ariz., from a stroke of apoplexy. He was 65 years old.

"Fitz-Mac" was one of the most brilliant political and editorial writers in the west. As a writer of fiction he also was well known. He was formerly connected with the Denver Tribune before it became the Denver Republican and later wrote numerous stories of western life, especially of the mining camps, where he spent the larger part of his time gathering material for stories.

MAJESTIC MUSICIAN MARRIED

Roy Parker, a musician at the Majestic theater, and Miss Ford of 121 North Weber street, were married yesterday at noon. Both young people are well known in Colorado Springs and plan to make their home in this city. The bride, it is understood, is also a musician of ability.

"OSLERIZING" THE NAVY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Retired navy officers, who have been in active duty on full pay, are being relieved gradually by younger officers. Secretary Meyer is taking this step in line with his announced policy of economy and increased efficiency in the navy department. Since Secretary Meyer became head of the navy department 85 retired officers out of 126 who were doing active duty have been placed on the reduced salary list and by the first of next year it is expected only 35 of them will remain.

HENRY NOT CANDIDATE FOR THE SPEAKERSHIP

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Representative R. L. Henry of Texas today announced he was not a candidate for the speakership of the Sixty-second Congress.

"Uppermost in my mind is Democratic harmony and unity," said he. "I would rather see this country blessed with Democratic victory in the selection of President, United States senators and representatives than to have the biggest honor the party could now confer upon me."

BURLINGTON ENGINEERS TAKING STRIKE VOTE

GALESBURG, Ill., Nov. 15.—The general grievance committee of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad engineers at the meeting in Omaha yesterday unanimously sustained their grand officers for suspending negotiations with the general managers of the western roads and the strike vote is now being taken on the system.

AVIATOR DE LESSEPS TO WED TORONTO GIRL

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The engagement of Comte Jaques De Lesseps, the French aviator, to Miss Grace McKenzie, youngest daughter of William McKenzie, a millionaire railroad man of Toronto, was announced here today by Comte Bertrand De Lesseps, brother of the aviator. Comte Jaques De Lesseps met Miss McKenzie at the Toronto aviation meet. He is a son of Ferdinand De Lesseps, the famous French engineer.

The safest way to destroy black gunpowder is to throw it into water, thereby dissolving the saltpeter.

BURNS SPEAKS IN DENVER ON FRIDAY

Secretary John T. Burns of the Dry Farming congress, who has established his office in this city to conduct preparations for the 1911 congress here, will be the principal speaker at the meeting of the Denver chamber of commerce on Friday at the Albany hotel. His address will deal with "Dry Farming, a Worldwide Movement." Mr. Burns' plan, it is said, is to establish a dry farming experimental station near Colorado Springs with which to demonstrate to visitors the value of this system.

Among those from this city who will probably attend the meeting in Denver are D. V. Donaldson, President T. J. Fisher and Secretary A. W. Henderson of the Chamber of Commerce. Other speakers will be: R. W. Thatcher, director of agriculture at Washington state college, and Lewis W. Merrill, in charge of the agricultural work of the Utah state administration.

Mr. Burns, who is at present in Denver, is expected home tomorrow. He has been unable to secure suitable headquarters for the Dry Farming congress in this city, but the search for suitable quarters, preferably on the ground floor, will be continued.

MORE CONTRACTS ON HOSPITAL ARE LET

The contracts for the mill work, the carpenter work and for the cement and plaster work were let yesterday by the building committee of the new Bethel hospital, which means that the building will be at once completed. The building committee has been letting the work in subcontracts and hopes to have the building completed as soon as would have been the case by the general contract method. The building committee refused to give the name or bid of the successful contractor.

MUHLBERG-SHELLENBERGER ENGAGEMENT IS DENIED

A story published by the afternoon paper yesterday to the effect that the engagement of Miss Lucile Muhlberg and Harry H. Shellenberger had been announced and that the wedding was to be celebrated here soon was denied last night by the mother of the young man, Mrs. C. N. Shellenberger and by Mr. Shellenberger himself. "They are not engaged, neither are they to marry," was the statement from the Shellenberger home.

Miss Muhlberg is the daughter of Mrs. Edward Muhlberg and both are now in Cincinnati. For the past few years they have spent much of their time in Colorado Springs and during their stay here have occupied a suite at the Antlers.

DEDICATION OF NEW BOYS' CLUB GYM, DEC. 15

The dedication of the new gymnasium of the Boys' club on South Tejon street will probably be held about December 15, provided the contractors have their work completed by that time. About $4,000 is being expended on the erection of the building, and $1,000 will be put into the furnishings and fixtures.

WATER METER TROUBLE IS SETTLED BY CONSUMERS

When the 26 water consumers who owed the city a total of $2,100 for water meters learned that Mayor Avery meant business in his notification that water would be turned off yesterday unless the meters were paid for, 24 of them sent in their checks for the amount due. In order to avoid having the water turned off the other two promised to remit without further delay. Some of the accounts had been standing on the city's books for years.

The Development of a Taste for Good Music

The Advertisement of One Who Specializes in Victor Victrolas

The Practical Use of the Victor as an Educator in Music

The Victor is being used in public schools in many cities to teach the children good music at the age when tastes are formed. Two schools of Colorado Springs are using the Victor for that purpose. The teachers felt that they had done much to elevate the taste in literature and art and through the Victor are elevating the most potent taste of all—that for music.

A boy of thirteen years from Cripple Creek was visiting in Colorado Springs last summer and spent some of his time in our store. His father said the other day: "The boy got quite a taste for music when he was down here last summer."

The Victor is too potent a force to be allowed to go undirected. That is the reason we have made a specialty of it, and have studied the capabilities of the instrument and are learning all we can about the music the Victor gives.

Here Are Some of the Things a Specialist in Victors Can Do for His Patrons

He can help in the choice of the instrument, especially in the choice of the tone reproducer which is the SOUL of the instrument.

When, as is often the case, several singers sing the same song, he knows whose record is best, and why?

It is his business to know something of the history of the composition and its composer.

Most important of all it is his duty to know what music is worth while and what will elevate the musical taste of those who listen.

The Victor-Victrola is most powerful for developing a taste for good music, when some one takes the time to look up these things. If you can take the time, good! If not, it will be our pleasure to make your cause, our cause.

That's what we mean, when we say specialist in the Victor Victrola.

After Twenty Years' Evolution Comes the Victor Victrola

The development of the talking machine has been going on for twenty years, and the progress has been more wonderful than in any other branch of science. There is as much difference between the squeaky phonograph of the old type and the full, deep, sweet toned Victor Victrola as between the tinkling spinet of the 18th century and the resonant Henry F. Miller pianoforte of today.

The old phonograph was a toy, the Victrola is a great musical instrument, the greatest of entertainers and the greatest educator in music.

What Great Artists Say of the Victor

"Friends may admire, critics praise or condemn, but the Victor, in its new and improved records, decides with unprejudiced fidelity."—Geraldine Farrar.

"I have learned more from a careful study of the improved Victor records than from any vocal instructor. To the student I cannot recommend them too highly."—Emilio de Gogorza.

Societies and Clubs

Parents and patrons of Lowell school held a meeting yesterday afternoon at the school at which Dr. James Royden Peabody spoke on "The Cause and Prevention of Colds."

At the annual meeting of El Paso lodge No. 13, A. F. and A. M., Friday evening, officers for the coming year will be elected.

The Ladies Aid society of the Second Congregational church will hold an all-day meeting at the church today.

Colorado Springs camp No. 7226, M. W. A., will celebrate its eleventh anniversary at the hall tonight. A banquet will be served and a special table reserved for charter members. The local camp has grown from 60 to 1,000 members.

As the first function in the new hall in the McIntyre building, Colorado Springs lodge No. 34, Knights of Pythias, will give a special program tonight, consisting of musical and literary numbers.

Hermione temple No. 1, Pythian Sisters, will meet this morning to tie comforts.

The Ladies' Aid society of the English Lutheran church will meet this afternoon with Mrs. Haak, 1714 South Nevada avenue.

Centennial chapter, O. E. S., will meet tonight in the Masonic temple.

Lace tunics are predicted, and also broad lace collars in sailor shape.

"THE HARMLESS CAT"

A genuine case of Cat Dread is a very curious and interesting phenomenon, says Dr. Woods Hutchinson in "Success Magazine." The mere sight of the unpopular animal will elicit the liveliest manifestations of annoyance and loathing, deepening to positive fear. If the cat is walking down the sidewalk, the cat dreader promptly crosses over to the other side of the street, and should the beast show any signs of following, beats a hasty retreat with every appearance of terror. If the fiend in feline form suddenly appears or is discovered in a room, the victim of this fear leaves the room in frantic haste, sometimes without waiting to choose very particularly between the door and the window. If he be prevented from escaping, the disturbance becomes unmistakably physical, even though some of its manifestations may still be controlled by a violent effort of the will. He becomes deathly pale, he gasps for breath, his muscles are set rigid in a spasm, he may twitch or shudder as in an ague fit. If a woman, she may faint; if a man, he may actually become nauseated to the verge of vomiting.

"VISIT THE SCHOOL" HILL

That better work will be accomplished in the school if the parents show more interest in it, and visit it at least once a month, is the idea of Principal Roscoe C. Hill of the Colorado Springs High School. He urges the parents to visit the school and see personally what the pupils are doing.

In his report covering the first six weeks of the present term for the High School proper, Principal Hill shows that with the one session a day system, which was adopted this year, tardiness and absentees are now practically things of the past, the new hours making it easy for students to get to school on time.

The report shows the following figures: Enrollment in various classes on November 4, English 426; Latin 365; Greek, 10; German 74; French 30; Spanish 12; history 278, mathematics 402; physiography 49; geology 45; chemistry 128, physics 48; commercial 136; drawing 120.

DAIRY MOVES INTO NEW BUILDING; ERECTS LARGE SIGN

The Holland Dairy company, whose dairy building was destroyed by fire June 5, yesterday moved into its new building, which has just been completed and which is said to be one of the most modern and up-to-date in the country. Among other improvements and additions the company has increased its herd from 50 to 120 cows, and is now making deliveries of milk in Broadmoor as well as in the northern part of the city.

On the roof of the cow barn, in letters 18 feet high and four feet wide, a sign has been painted, reading, "Holland Dairy," which is said to be plainly visible for miles, and can easily be seen from the Denver and Rio Grande and the Santa Fe right-of-ways.

JOHNNY EVERS IN A CLASS BY HIMSELF SAYS MURNANE

By TIM MURNANE.

BOSTON, Nov. 1[illegible]—I think Johnny Evers' compliment to Collins the second baseman of the Athletics was the finest thing ever pulled off in baseball, and goes to show of what caliber this great Chicago player is both on and off the ball field.

In commenting for the press on the work of Collins in the games at Chicago Evers says that nothing finer could be imagined. Evers gives Collins credit for remarkable speed, a fine knowledge of knowing where to play for the batsman and the ability to hit it from all angles, showing all around qualities never before discovered in a ball player that he had the pleasure of looking over.

Just before the first game at Chicago Evers worked his way with the help of crutches, to the front of the grandstand, and had a hearty hand shake with the modest Quaker second baseman. Then Evers took his seat back of the screen and observed every move made by Collins. Evers knew how second base should be played, and was fairly carried away with the Quaker's ability to be in the right spot for the grounders sent between second and first base.

On three occasions Harry Davis ran to first base when it was his play, seemingly, to field the ball and allow the pitcher to cover first base but the answer was satisfactory each time when Collins came up with a fast grounder not fifteen feet from the line, and the man was thrown out. Collins managed to be on the base for the throw and was never the fraction of a second late on any play that came into his territory. This interested the great second baseman of the Chicago club who has made a fine study of this line of work, and naturally he warmed to the ball playing put up by the Quaker.

Perhaps no two ball players were ever more alike in their fielding than Evers and Collins, both working with their heads and forcing the pitcher to tip off the style of ball he intended to give the batsman. The contrast between Zimmerman and Evers was simply remarkable and made plain the fact that a second baseman must have more than his hands and his feet to make good in major league company.

It was also made quite plain that Evers and Collins are the strength of the two clubs that contested for honors on the world's series.

How many players are there today in the business that will acknowledge the superior qualities of a rival? Evers told the truth, as he saw it, and had the nerve to say that Collins was the greatest ball player that he had ever seen, a better base runner than Ty Cobb, a better fielder than Lajoie, and taken altogether a more valuable man for a ball team than either.

Before the games Evers jollied his own boys to keep up their courage. He must have known that the great Cub team had slowed up, but he was bound to keep up appearances, and with the Cubs in the form they were two years ago and Evers in the lineup there might have been a much different story to tell. That old story about the young ball player never getting a show is untrue, for the veteran lives to acknowledge the worth of a promising youngster, as he is very apt to remember the task he had himself in getting into the big league.

Johnny Evers is an exceptional character in baseball. He is bigger than men or clubs and thinks and acts like the real genius he is and is naturally a remarkable leader, a rare thing in baseball at the present time.

If you want to hear inside ball talked by experts go to the annual meeting in New York next month. If Pat Powers has his six-day bike race on at the time, you want to go to the garden after midnight and sit in Harry Stevens' restaurant. There you are very likely to find sitting around one large table such characters as Johnnie McGraw, Joe Kelley, Johnnie Evers, Jack Dunn, Hugh Duffy, Tom McCarthy, Billy Keeler, Fred Lake, Jess Burkett, Bill Dahlen, Sherwood McGee, Hugh Jennings, John F. Morrill, Clark Griffith and other ball men, usually there as the guests of Pat Powers.

J. J. M'GRAW SIGNS 5-YEAR CONTRACT

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Nationals since July 19, 1902, today signed a five-year contract with President John T. Brush to continue as commander of the Giants. In the eight seasons that McGraw has been manager the team has finished first twice, second four times, third once and fourth once.

This is the first time McGraw ever has been signed by President Brush for a term longer than two years.

YALE 'VARSITY TEARS UP THE SCRUB ELEVEN

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 15—Four touchdowns were made by the Yale Varsity football team in a practice game with the Freshmen eleven today. In one of the scrimmages, Baker the substitute halfback injured a leg but will be in shape to get into the game Saturday. The lineup today was that used against Princeton and there will be no change Saturday.

WALSH OUTPOINTED KELLER

NEW YORK, Nov. 1[illegible]—Jimmy Walsh of Boston outpointed Sammy Keller, bantamweight champion of England in a fast 10-round bout tonight at the Fairmount Athletic club.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 1[illegible]—A handicap for all ages was the feature of a good card at Jamestown today. The winner was Blackford, a horse that hitherto has finished among the also runs but which won comfortably from J. H. Houghton.

President Charles S. Havenor of the Milwaukee American association baseball club has appointed Jimmy Barrett manager of the Brews to succeed John G. McCloskey.

Harvard Takes Light Practice

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 15.—The Harvard football team today forsook the stadium after an hour's light practice and tomorrow will leave for Farmington, Conn., to complete preparation for the game with Yale on Saturday at New Haven.

Practice today, after yesterday's stiff scrimmage, was comparatively light. The two sections of the squad opposed each other in formations and ran off signals, but there were no bruising scrimmages.

The Harvard injured list is down to the minimum and H. C. Leslie, one of the veteran kicks, is the only man who is doubtful about getting into the game.

Speculators Offering $100 for Yale-Harvard Ticket

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 15.—Tickets to the Yale-Harvard football game here next Saturday are worth nearly their weight in radium. The demand is twice as great as in any previous year according to the management, and nearly 20,000 alumni and undergraduate applications have already been thrown out because of inability to fill the orders.

Offers of from $50 to $100 apiece are made for the pasteboards by speculators. Two tickets is the most allotted to any Yale or Harvard man and a large proportion of the seekers have been cut off with a single admission. Not a single outsider has secured tickets.

This unprecedented demand has renewed the demand here for the building of a Yale stadium. The present stands seat only 33,000 and the clamor for tickets to the game of next Saturday would exhaust a seating capacity of 250,000. Yale has no idea of erecting a stadium that will meet such a general demand as that but estimates that a structure for 60,000 persons will accommodate the students, alumni and a few guests.

The Yale athletic committee has charge of the building plans for the proposed stadium. They sent Everard Thompson, the graduate manager, to Europe some time ago to look over the stadium which was recently built in Chester, England.

The committee has an option on a site adjoining the present Yale field. The structure will cost about $300,000.

COMMENT AROUND THE FOOTBALL CAMPS

Unless all signs fail the football fans of the state will know by tomorrow night whether Colorado College and Boulder will play off their postponed game, now being discussed, and whether the match will be put on in Denver or in the university town.

A conference has been called to be held tomorrow morning at the Metropole hotel, Denver, which will be attended by Coach Rothgeb, Manager Fowler and Professor Griswold, of Colorado College, and a similar representation from Boulder to go over the matter finally and decide whether the game will be played on December 3 as is now proposed.

Colorado College is anxious for the game, but maintains that the contest should be staged in Denver. Boulder, it has been said, is not specially anxious to stack up against the speedy Tiger aggregation but if the game is arranged insists that it be played there. While it has been pointed out that the game was originally scheduled for Boulder and that the postponement was due solely because of the smallpox scare, yet it should also be remembered that Colorado College has a voice in the matter of dictating where the post-season match is to be staged. The fact that Boulder had to cancel its game with the Tigers is the same as a forfeiture, and if it is decided not to keep the Colorado College squad in training a week after the season is officially closed there can be little if any criticism of the college authorities.

Viewed in advance it would seem that the only way to make a post-season game possible is to have it played in Denver. Whether the two institutions will get together and decide the case that way however is still a matter of speculation.

In preparation for the hard game with Lamar on Saturday Coach Coffin last evening sent his two High School teams together in a stiff scrimmage. A muddy field covered with snow did not halt the practice work and the elevens were kept going until dark. Coffin was in the lineup on the second team showing the regulars how he expects them to play against Lamar, which will outweigh the Terrors at least 15 pounds to the man. Saturday's game will be for the championship of the Southern division and in the event that the Terrors turn the trick they will have a special train at their disposal for the state championship game to be played at Longmont on Thanksgiving.

The High School is looking for a hard game with Lamar, but members of the team are counting upon certain victory. Casselman of Boulder will referee, Porter, La Junta, will umpire, Tub Morris, formerly of Colorado College, has been selected as head linesman, and Bryant of Las Animas will be field judge.

The Salt Lake Tribune views Saturday's Utah-Denver game, which the former won 20 to 0, in this fashion:

"The significance of Utah's victory lies in the fact that Denver university is conceded to have by far the best football team in Colorado and one of the best football teams in the west. Denver tied Marquette in a 0 to 0 game and Marquette ranks with the best teams of the east and the middle west. Denver will probably be given the title of Rocky Mountain champions because Utah has lost two conference games while this is the first defeat for Denver. Nevertheless it will be with considerable pride that Utah can say that though Denver is the champion this school has the team that beat the champions."

Colorado College, which has not yet been defeated, is evidently not regarded as being in the running for the Rocky Mountain championship. Just how Denver will probably be given the title of champions is a condition that it is impossible to grasp all at once here. The best Denver can hope for is to tie Colorado College and to do this she will have to beat the Tigers on Thanksgiving. According to the Tribune the Rocky Mountain conference is composed only of Utah and Denver. For real inside info on the championship situation the above is about the weirdest of the lot.

With only one college game in the state on Saturday, Boulder vs. Fort Collins, football interest will turn largely to the east on the occasion of the annual clash between Yale and Harvard. Until last Saturday Harvard was practically a 5-to-1 bet, but Yale's unexpected defeat of Princeton upset the experts and will doubtless cause a big shrinkage in the odds. Yale beat Harvard last year, 8 to 0, and some of her followers say she will duplicate the trick this year, though she has been defeated by West Point and Brown.

DECISION TO BARRY IN STEWART FIGHT

BOSTON, Nov. 15.—Jim Barry of Chicago got the decision over Jim Stewart of New York in 12 rounds at the Armory Athletic association tonight. Stewart substituted for Joe Jeannette of New York who claimed to have a sprained hand which prevented his fighting. Jeannette appeared as second for Stewart.

The New Yorker used a lively left with some effect through the first three rounds but from that time on Barry took every round. Stewart's left eye was cut in the third round and bothered him throughout the rest of the bout.

AERO CLUB ASKED TO WITHHOLD AWARDS

NEW YORK, Nov. 1[illegible]—The Aero Club of America received a cable message today from the Royal Aero Club of the United Kingdom asking that the $10,000 prize for the Statue of Liberty flight during the recent International tournament be not awarded to John B. Moisant pending settlement of Grahame-White's appeal to the international federation.

Pittsburg, it is said, will cut out her O'Connor. It has been pretty soft for this young man who has roosted two or three years on the Pirate bench and never caught a full game. This season he didn't catch more than two innings.

Young Erne, who defeated Sammy Smith at the National Athletic club of Philadelphia Saturday night, is out with a challenge to Ad Wolgast for the lightweight championship. Erne is willing to meet Wolgast at 133 pounds ringside.

Fancy Roadsters Bring Big Price

NEW YORK, Nov. 15. Lugano and Como, E. T. Stotesbury's crack pair of roadsters which took a blue ribbon at the Horse Show yesterday, were sold to Walter Winans this afternoon for $25,000. This is a record price for a horse show transaction.

Mr. Winans, famous as an American citizen who has visited this country but once, had an entry pitted against the Stotesbury pair yesterday but did not even get highly commended. He so admired the victors, however, that he asked Mr. Stotesbury today what he held the pair at, and when told, drew his check for the amount and handed it to the Philadelphian.

Bowlers Start Tournament

Low scores were the rule with one exception at the opening of the Brunswick sweepstakes tourney last night. Fifteen rolled their first block of three games and the highest was McClure who totaled 580 pins. In the second inning McClure set a fast pace and toppled over 21[illegible], two bad splits holding down his score. He was the only 200 man last night.

A total of [illegible] games will be rolled during the tourney, total pins to take the three prizes offered by the management. Three games must be rolled each week by the contestants. Last night's scores were as follows:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Tyer | 125 | 134 | 145 |
| [illegible] | 120 | 146 | 178 |
| Huber | 127 | 158 | [illegible] |
| Hayden | 145 | 149 | 16[illegible] |
| McClure | 158 | 21[illegible] | [illegible] |
| Nydegger | 135 | 161 | 122 |
| Zehner | 114 | 1[illegible] | 1[illegible]8 |
| Johnson | 162 | 135 | 149 |
| Swift | 117 | 134 | 152 |
| Malaby | 136 | 145 | 165 |
| Barkey | 112 | 135 | 134 |
| Harrison | 115 | 141 | 176 |
| Robinson | 159 | 145 | 178 |
| Gardner | 12[illegible] | 164 | 189 |
| Wright | 162 | 149 | 188 |

The following bowlers will roll off their first block of three games tonight and tomorrow: Tim Stanley, Carl Graessle, John Johnson, Dr. Conway, A. R. Waterton, Dr. McDonald, Wm. Murray, Henry Monagan, Harry Mark[illegible], Ed Rathburn, C. R. Fuller, C. R. Bush, Herbert Pomeroy, William Wornick, F. M. Millson and Dr. W. C. Allen.

Next New York Legislature May Declare Boxing Legal

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—When the next New York state legislature convenes at Albany a bill will be introduced legalizing public boxing exhibitions of a limited number of rounds before incorporated athletic clubs. Sporting enthusiasts here assert that they have received assurances of a strong backing for the measures and believe that it will pass.

The bill as tentatively drawn up includes a novel clause, providing for a state boxing commission to be composed of three members appointed by the governor whose duties will include the issuing of licenses to clubs of recognized ability. The framers of the bill believe that clubs should pay high fees for licenses, probably $1,000 per club annually, with a percentage of net receipts to be collected as a state tax, the entire money thus realized to be turned over to the state's charitable institutions. The commission will also grant a permit for each contest and will have the power to prevent battles that might be termed prize fights because of the notoriety of the pugilists.

The bill as drawn up by the boxing men limits the length of each contest to twenty rounds of three minutes each, with a compulsory rule that referees must prevent knockouts at all hazards. Clubs that permit open betting on bouts will forfeit their licenses, which may also be revoked by the commission for any other breach of the rules.

AL KUBIAK WALLOPS NEGRO HEAVYWEIGHT

PITTSBURG, Nov. 15.—K[illegible] Cotton, the negro heavyweight, had much the worst of it with Al Kubiak, the Polish fighter, before the Union club in a six round bout tonight. In just another round or two the former sparring partner of Jack Johnson would have taken the count.

Kubiak got angry at the start of the second final session and sailed in with the intention of putting Cotton away and he nearly did so. He slammed away at his opponent's jaw and shot rights and lefts into his ribs which had the negro hanging on for dear life.

NO CHARGE EXPECTED IN CLASSIFICATION

CHICAGO, Nov. 1[illegible].—The board of arbitration of the National Association of Professional Baseball clubs adjourned tonight without taking formal action with reference to reclassifications of leagues. The indications were that no changes would be made.

HACK BEATS TWO

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 15.—George Hackenschmidt, the Russian wrestler, who agreed to throw Hjalmar Lundin and Pilkoff, the latter a Danish wrestler, within an hour, accomplished the feat in a little over half an hour tonight.

Pilkoff was thrown in eight minutes and Lundin in 2[illegible] minutes.

Bill Donovan, the Tigers' pitcher, has signed his 1911 contract to play with Detroit. Officials of the Detroit base ball club announced also that George Mullin and Oscar Stanage, pitcher and catcher respectively, of the District American league team have renewed their contracts for the 1911 season.

MIDDLEWEIGHT CHAMPION POSSIBILITY IN M'MAHON

(By E. W. SMITH)

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Illinois may soon have another fighting champion if all of the good things that are being said about Tom McMahon of Kewanee are half true, then Tom is destined to be middleweight champion of the world within a few short months.

Tom is a former sparring partner of Billy Papke, now one of the chief claimants of the title left vacant when Stanley Ketchel met his untimely end. He comes from the same section of the state, but as McMahon is his right name one may guess that there is a vast difference in the breeding of the two men.

Just now McMahon happens to be located in and around Pittsburg, which is a hotbed of boxing at the present time. He happens to be in Pittsburg because Papke in one of his moments of mental aberration took him there and left him. Billy, who never will be known as an oriental spendthrift, took Tom east with him and forgot to provide him with means of getting back.

It was a lucky stroke for Tom, however, and he is thanking Papke for his financial forgetfulness. Tom hooked up with one James Dime, a former lightweight fighter and now a prosperous promoter of Newcastle and Pittsburg. James put Tom on for a fight and then took a liking to the young fellow, for Tom certainly is a likable young chap—frank, sincere and with a clean mind.

Tom has some difficulties with his early opponents but he stuck, and in a short time Ten Cent Jimmy saw that there was real worth in the new fighter. He had periods of homesickness but he fought these off by marring the countenances of some of the hardy burlies who were sent against him, and if you've ever been in Pittsburg and around the surrounding country you may well imagine that Tom didn't have much time to think about home and mother.

Well, anyway, Dime soon learned that Tom liked the fighting game and reveled in the milling. There wasn't much money, but Tom was ambitious to get up toward the top. Perhaps he had in mind to some day get enough coin together to repay Billy Papke for the car fare he expended [illegible] him, but at any rate Tom soon became a great favorite with the fight fans and today they think he is little short of a wonder. Dime didn't rack them on too strong for Tom at the start and as a result he [illegible] now achieved a lot of confidence and never has had his heart broken by a good licking.

Jack Morgan, the Indianapolis middleweight, took [illegible] the other night, but the thing [illegible] into the second round when [illegible] Jack stretched out on the [illegible]. He knocked out Jack [illegible] two [illegible] round each, and [illegible] Jack Abbott was in a [illegible] Abbott was considered [illegible] the real good [illegible].

The people [illegible] understand how McMahon disposed of Abbott so easily and they have been matched up again for the 17th.

Nothing is too strong for Dime to call in now [illegible] the other day he said he was willing to bet $1,000 in good [illegible] that Tom could beat [illegible], the recent sensation of the east [illegible]. Dime admits that [illegible] fellow, but figures that McMahon has learned so much [illegible] that he would be [illegible] match for [illegible].

Then there is Frank Klaus, and Dime promises to [illegible] in due course [illegible] a real [illegible] scrap as many of [illegible] Pittsburg have [illegible] Klaus is the real article [illegible] champion of the world [illegible] middleweight.

Tom [illegible] the Dime banner and is [illegible] against Jack Twin Sullivan [illegible] Syracuse, N. Y. [illegible] eight is said to be [illegible]. He [illegible] also fight [illegible] Australian in New Orleans during December. Patsy Brannigan is another of the Dime string of fighters and is being pointed for another whirl at Johnny Coulon, the Chicago bantam.

Ward Will Not Oppose Lynch

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—John Montgomery Ward, who was a candidate for the presidency of the National Baseball league last winter, will not run against the incumbent, Thomas J. Lynch, at the annual meeting next month. Mr. Ward made public tonight the copy of a letter he had written to President Lynch on November 4, as follows:

"My attention has been called to several newspaper allegations that I am [illegible] a candidate for the office of president of the National league at the [illegible] annual meeting. These statements have been made without authority from me and I beg to [illegible] that I am not and will not be a candidate against you. Please accept [illegible] my friendly regard."

BREED, A CHAMPION STRONG MAN, DEAD

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 1[illegible]—Charles [illegible] Breed, of this city, formerly the world's amateur champion strong man and a leading [illegible] man, dropped dead from heart disease today.

[illegible] Mr. [illegible] D. Sargent [illegible] perfect so far as physical [illegible]. He was [illegible] man [illegible] for his extraordinary [illegible] throughout the country giving exhibitions of muscular prowess, meeting strong men everywhere and never being defeated.

BOTTO DEFEATS KEYES

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 1[illegible].—Vincent Botto, representing St. Louis, defeated F. M. Keyes of Kansas City and Bert Kerr, also of Kansas City, [illegible] to 42 in the second billiard league contest here tonight. The game went 110 innings. Keyes, who was playing in poor form, was relieved by Kerr in the ninety-fourth inning.

LAKE FOREST CHAMPION

BELOIT, Wis., Nov. 1[illegible].—The Wisconsin-Illinois football championship between Beloit College and Lake Forest college was won by Lake Forest 18 to 5.

MASON BEATS MONOHAN

NEW YORK, Nov. 1[illegible].—In the National billiard [illegible] tournament, A. [illegible] Mason of Boston defeated Joe Monohan of New York [illegible] to 4[illegible] in [illegible] innings tonight.

It would be funny poetic justice if the Iowa farmer tells Hack to go and get a reputation before his challenge would be considered, but not altogether out of place. The Russian Lion lost about all the reputation he ever had when he got hold of [illegible] in Chicago. He can hardly expect to find the game any easier since he has come back and it's up to him to show that he can come back and rough it.

THE MEXICAN RIOTS.

THE anti-American riots in Mexico probably come as a surprise to most people in this country whose knowledge of the attitude of the Mexicans toward the "Gringoes" is derived from the oft-published accounts of the cordiality with which President Diaz welcomes American capital. Undoubtedly there is a good deal of confusion on this subject, for it is becoming plain that the official attitude of the Mexican government toward Americans is one thing, while that of the Mexican people is quite another.

Officially, the government of Mexico loves Americans, for it needs the money. The country possesses resources of immense value but they cannot be developed without foreign capital, and—what is even more important—without foreign brains and energy. Thus, a general invitation has been extended to the financial world to come to Mexico and take advantage of its manifold opportunities for money-making. The government has offered every inducement, granting liberal concessions, providing adequate protection to investments, and in various other ways making the field an inviting one for capitalists. Naturally Americans have been most active in exploiting Mexican resources, the total investment of American capital in the Republic now being close to two billion dollars, but they have not been alone for the field has been successfully invaded by the British, the Germans and the French.

The result is the virtual control of every Mexican industry by foreigners and mostly by Americans. With the exception of the government-owned railroads there is scarcely a transportation line, a mine, an electric power plant or a manufacturing concern of any importance that was not financed, built, controlled and operated by foreigners.

NATIVE DISLIKE OF AMERICANS. And so far as the Americans are concerned it is only fair to the Mexicans to add that they have not always been as tactful as they might have been. To the average Mexican the manners and methods of the Gringo invader are unpleasantly brusque. He is there for business and he insists on doing things in a businesslike way. The hustling atmosphere which he creates is distasteful to the easy-going, pleasure-loving Mexican. Of course, the common people are an inferior race and the American probably does not make a serious mistake when he treats them as such. But his businesslike air often offends the educated classes, who mistake it for an assumption of superiority. They look upon Americans as a people without sentiment or idealism, with no knowledge or appreciation of the finer things in life, but merely with a genius for business and money-making. They are glad to see American dollars and American energy developing their country, but nevertheless they dislike the American and resent his methods.

The present riots may continue for a few days but there is no likelihood of their assuming a really serious phase or causing international complications. They are interesting as an evidence of the growing feeling of nationalism in Mexico, and if the government were controlled by a less vigorous man than Diaz they might become formidable. But under present conditions they are merely an episode.

THE WATERWAYS IMPROVEMENT.

SPEAKING to the Business Men's League in St. Louis a short time ago, Colonel Roosevelt reiterated his indorsement of the Lakes-to-the-Gulf waterways plan, and predicted its completion "in time." This is rather an indefinite limit but if progress is to be expected in so complicated a project it must necessarily be slow, and the people of the Mississippi Valley, who are primarily interested in this scheme, will be content even with slow progress provided it is actually made.

The Lakes-to-the-Gulf project has been carefully investigated by engineers of the War Department and pronounced feasible. There are numerous variants of the original plan, but in a general way it provides for the construction of a 14 foot channel from the Gulf to St. Louis and an eight foot channel from that point to Chicago via the Illinois River and the Drainage canal. It is also proposed to deepen the channel of the upper Mississippi to St. Paul and Minneapolis and to improve the Ohio as far as Pittsburg and the Missouri to Kansas City and perhaps to Omaha. Other tributaries of the Mississippi and of the Ohio and Missouri can also be improved, especially the Cumberland and the Tennessee, both of which now carry a considerable volume of freight.

THE CASE FOR WATERWAYS IMPROVEMENT. There is much to be said in favor of this program of waterways improvement. Its advocates contend that the surest way to regulate railroad freight rates is to establish a healthy competition on the rivers. No less an authority than James J. Hill, who is generally regarded as the greatest railroad man in the country, has declared that waterways improvement is not merely necessary, but is desired by the railroad companies themselves, because traffic is increasing so rapidly that the railroads cannot hope to handle it unaided. Mr. Hill says that it would be a distinct advantage to the roads if the bulkier kinds of freight, such as coal, ore, lumber, etc., which do not require quick delivery, could be shipped wherever practicable by water, leaving the railroads free to handle other kinds of freight.

Of course there is a natural limit to which waterways improvement can be carried and it never would be possible to establish a system of water transportation throughout the country. Nevertheless it will be surprising to the uninformed to learn what a vast area is embraced in the scheme of improvement now under consideration. The great lakes, supplemented by the Mississippi and its tributaries and by several canals which are either built or projected, provide a system of water transportation that covers the entire eastern half of the nation.

Germany and France have developed water transportation to a degree almost unthought of in this country although most of their streams are insignificant compared with ours. The same thing can be done here, and it is gratifying to note that Congress has taken up the matter in a spirit which promises effective action.

IN THE MORNING. When you leave your downy couch with a big three cornered grouch and begin your morning's labors with the manners of a bear, then your friends will wish you'd slide to the forest wild and wide, and, like any other brute, do your growling in your lair. I have figured in this way: If I want to spoil my day, if I want to fuss and clamor till my jaws are flecked with foam, I should seek a place remote, there to shed my shoes and coat, and kick up a holy rumpus till the cows are coming home. For I haven't got the right to go snarling, day and night, making life a weary burden to the people that I meet, and although my nature's dour, and my temper hard and sour, I have made some folks imagine that it's reasonably sweet! Life is more or less a bluff, and pretension is the stuff, just pretend that you are gentle, though you're savage as a bear. Just pretend that you are kind, and the people are so blind that they'll say you are a daisy, and they'll praise you everywhere!

The Daily Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

If the government ever feels that it would like a mother and daughter to act as spies in its secret service department, I can recommend two women who are qualified for the position by a long course of home training.

I don't know that there is an examination for spies, but if there is, the fine tooth comb inspection of the neighborhood which these two women carry on daily from their living room window, certainly ought to make them able to pass with flying colors.

I made a call at their home the other day and this is a sample of the conversation.

Please punctuate scantily with a few general remarks and liberally with seances at the window.

"Oh, mother, look out the window quick and see if you think that's a new coat Ruth Blakely has on or her old caracul trimmed up with lynx."

"Lucy, do you know who that man going by with Madge Holbrook is. Is he the one she went to the theater with Wednesday? No, that one was light haired. This must be another one. My dear, this is the fifth man we have seen that girl with since she got back from her vacation. I think it's positively scandalous. I don't see why her mother doesn't forbid her to make such a show of herself."

"There goes Mrs. Norton off to her "New Thought" lecture. Yes, she goes every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and stays so late that her husband often has to get his own supper."

"If that isn't the Holbrook's maid starting out all dressed up. It isn't her afternoon off, either. I don't see how Mrs. Holbrook can let her gad so. Why, she had two afternoons and two evenings last week. Mrs. Holbrook spoils her terribly."

"My dear, do you know who that girl is going down the other side of the street with the brown corduroy suit on. She came out of the Blakely's, I think. She is one I never saw before."

Pause, while the two ladies stare the luckless stranger out of sight, taking in every detail of her costume. I am sure if you should call and ask them today, they could tell you whether she wore button boots or laced and just how much the plumes on her hat cost and whether her puffs were really her own or "made in Germany."

"There's the doctor's automobile at Mrs. Rice's. My dear, that's the fifth time this week and yet Mrs. Rice isn't even sick abed. I always used to like her, but I certainly don't think this looks well. The doctor is such a fascinating man and Mr. Rice is away so much. Really, someone ought to warn him. You don't believe Mrs. Rice could do anything wrong? Oh, my dear, you havent' seen as much of the world as I have."

No, I haven't, thank goodness, and I trust I never shall. At least not the way she sees it.

I happened to visit elsewhere in that neighborhood and I know how the people who live within eyeshot of that argus-eyed window, actually skulk out of their back doors sometimes to avoid its scrutiny.

I know how they even plan their goings and comings so that "Mrs. M. and Lucy won't see me and try to find out what I'm doing."

Not because they are doing anything wrong, but merely because they resent this perpetual spying.

I think these people are foolish. In allowing themselves to be disturbed by the two spy-women's littleness of mind, they place themselves almost on the same level.

I think they should good-naturedly ignore the scrutiny instead of actually letting it influence their actions.

But as for the spy-women themselves—well, I'm just sorry for them.

Don't you think it must be terrible to have so few real interests, so few resources within yourselves that you are reduced to perpetually spying upon your neighbors for food for thought?

I do.

WHATSOEVER.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

Touch not; taste not; handle not, which all are to perish with the using. (Col. 2, 21-22.)

The two things which today are the source of most if not all, the evils in the world are the misuse of intoxicants and of women. From ancient times the battle cry of the armies of lust has been, "Wine, woman and song." From the days of old, these two things, used for other than their legitimate purposes, for which God designed them, have ensnared the hearts of men, shorn them of their strength, deprived them of their birthright.

And they have been the excuse for sacrificing womanhood, in all ages, on the altars of lust.

From the days of the Bacchic feasts, and the orgies of Phallic worship, through all the ancient forms of nature worship, in the Hebrew religion, in the Greek myth, in the Druid rites, in the Asgard worship of the Land of the Far North, sacrifice has always been the central fact. It hasn't always been human sacrifice, but it has generally been so. It hasn't always been the woman who was sacrificed, but it has generally been she, but always, and always the sacrifice has been accompanied by the libation, and when the libation was not wine, it was human blood; and, when human blood, nine times out of ten woman's blood, and she bears today in her body the proof of the race long habit of sacrificing her to man.

Civilized woman today pours forth her libation, and her reward has been, and yet is, the badge of inferior origin to the male, mental and physical. To him she must bow. For him she must wait. To his capricious choice she must look for the father of her children, and, if he doesn't come and choose her she must remain meekly submissive to the living of a lonely, childless life and to having her more fortunate (God forefend) sisters whose charms have been more potent than hers, bark for her the tongue of pity as they mockingly call "Old Maid." And the males, who insist on usurping her right of choice (for surely the one who gives most should have the initiative, the right to say to whom she will give her great offering and for whom she will bear children), echo the taunt with open shame.

The ancient fire worshipers of Persia, bowed to the God of Purity, Mazda.

The ancient Hebrew religion was less pure, but it inculcated morality, in the third and seventh commandments, especially, and provided in the Mosaic law, for the protection of woman; and, really, if she obeyed the law, gave into her own hands the initiative and referendum. (Ex. 15:19-31.)

Jesus, the son of the Highest, the man who taught the highest code of morals and ethics that earth has ever known, proclaimed in the Sermon on the Mount "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God."

Christian Science, the latest revelation to humanity, teaches continence, so much so that those who do not understand its real teachings, are anxious lest, should it become a universal religion, the human race would become extinct. But such is not its import. Christian Science inculcates two principles, or rather, two branches of one principle, temperance and transformation. It seeks not to abolish the good, which God has made, but rather to translate its negative, evil, back into the original concept. It does not utterly condemn marriage and human generation, as some think, but, in the words of our introduction, it lays upon humanity, for every relation of life, the injunction, "Touch not; taste not, handle not" the unclean thing, nor yet the clean, save for the holiest uses.

It seeks not to destroy the home, and home ties, but rather to transform the home, with all its discords, and skeletons hidden away in dusky, dusty corners, into the Holy of Holies, the Ark of the Covenant, the little Sanctuary of God. It seeks to make man pure and woman holy, by teaching them the divine plan of the ages.

Its attitude on the subject of stimulants and narcotics, is the attitude of the best of the thinking world, "Touch not; taste not; handle not."

Its dictum for itself is "If meat make my brother to offend, I will eat no meat, while the world standeth."

Its law of action is, "All things are lawful unto me, but all things are not expedient, all things are lawful for me, but I will not be brought under the power of any." (I Cor. 6:12.)

What humanity, as a whole, needs today, to meet the social evils of divorce, intemperance, prostitution, are higher ideals of the sacredness of human relations, higher ideals of the sanctity of the human body. These, in themselves, as God thought, are divine; but as fallen man has unthought God's thoughts, by reversal they are hell and every evil work.

There are two things which must first be done; two laws which must be dug up out of the ancient Mosaic law, and enforced. First, "Thou shalt not commit adultery" (Lev. 20:10), and second, "And the man that committeth adultery, with his neighbor's wife, the adulterer and the adulteress, shall surely be put to death" (Deut. 22:22.) "If a man be found lying with a woman, married to a husband, then they shall both of them die, both the man that lay with the woman and the woman: so shalt thou put away evil from Israel." And Israel today isn't any better, (nay, rather is it worse, because it sins now in more subtle hidden ways; it is more hypocritical; it lies more blandly about itself), than it was then; and it needs the same law enforced to put away its greater evil.

Jesus forgave the Magdalen in words of divine pity, but the Magdalen wasn't a married woman; and, if her companion was a married man, at least we have no record that Jesus forgave him; and we may be sure he would not have done so under any circumstances, since he proclaimed, "Think not that I am come to destroy the law of the prophets; I am not come to destroy but to fulfill. For verily I say unto you till heaven and earth pass, one jot or one tittle shall in no wise pass from the law, till all be fulfilled." (Mat. 5 17-18.)

Judges and juries need to be merciful, where mercy is due, but unflinching and uncompromising where there is no excuse but the one Adam gave, "The woman, which thou gavest me, she gave me of the tree and I did eat."

Personal experience, wisdom, great love for humanity, these three alone can fit any of us to judge just judgments, when dealing with our fellow man. One needs to have known and conquered temptation himself, being as Jesus was, "in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin," before he can be "an high priest who can be touched with a feeling of our infirmities," and so be merciful to the sinner. "God is love, but love is the sternest punisher of sin in all the universe." It never forgives save by utterly destroying the sin, not the sinner. And we must be God-like, for "now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be, but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him, for we shall see him as he is." And the best way to prepare for his coming, and to bring it speedily to the salvation of the present social crisis, is to live as nearly the Christ life as we can, "to have that mind in us which was also in Christ Jesus."

But what of the children who do not come under the above caption? Their salvation already draweth nigh. Their three saviors are here, the public school, the juvenile court and the Sunday school, in the order named, because they deal with children in that ratio. The public school serves the greatest number, the juvenile court the neediest number, the Sunday school, the least number.

It is amazing the responsiveness to the highest ideals, that is found [illegible] the surface of the child's mind. They are [illegible] times yes a hundred times more eager for the good, the pure, the true, than for the unclean and the evil. Only there must be goodness, purity and truth in the teacher and the judge to bring it to the light of day. Their task is comparatively easy if their hearts are of the right sort, if their experiences have fitted them to understand the [illegible] the trials, the temptations of youth, and if their [illegible] strength and wisdom of age are sufficient to make them able to [illegible] all and [illegible] their own [illegible] "Each in [illegible] be a law unto himself," that can will, and does act promptly, lovingly, unquestioningly when the crisis comes, and then leave the result with God, choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season," for there are always plenty of moral cowards, faint hearted tremblers and frightened panderers to cry "wolf."

The children are our hope and promise, and they are all made of one blood, to dwell on all the face of the earth (Acts 17.26.) Whether they are in the care of the public school, of the juvenile court, or of the Sunday school they are just simply human beings with loves, hates, fears, braveries, tears, joys, just like the rest of us, having the same organs, dimensions, senses, affections, passions, fed with the same food, hurt with the same weapons, subject to the same diseases, healed by the same means, warmed and cooled by the same summer and winter, as a grownup is. If you prick them they bleed, if you tickle them they laugh, if you poison them they die, if you wrong them, they surely revenge. Therefore the only thing to do, if we would escape that revenge, is to give them their three most sacred rights, a good home, a good education, and a pure ideal of real life and its sacred relations and obligations, such as will fit each of them to be the best possible citizen, the best possible member of society, and finally, the best possible parent to other children yet unborn.

And how can we do this? It means more teachers of a better quality in public schools and in Sunday schools, fewer pupils to the teacher, less fads in the course of study and more time for teaching essentials, larger buildings, wider playgrounds, more careful supervision of play times. It means money, time, brains, hearts. The time, the brains, the hearts are here ready, but the money—"aye, there's the rub"—it's stuck fast too often in the taxpayer's pocket or in his bank book. He can get it out to carry an election, to help erect a useless monument to a deceased grafter, such as disgraces one of the finest parks in our capital city; he can use it for "wine, women, and song," but when you suggest a heavier levy for public school purposes, or a raise in salary for the overworked teacher who is training his own flesh and blood, for time and eternity, he groans and begs like Shylock—

"Nay, take my life and all; pardon not that:
You take my house when you do take the prop
That doth sustain my house; you take my life
When you do take the means whereby
I live."

And when you have done your utmost for the public schools, in money, brains and hearts, you will need less for the juvenile courts—though, they will be needed for a long while yet—and as for the Sunday schools, they will take care of themselves.

But where does the "Whatsoever" and the text apply? Just here: We must teach the rising generation two more "Whatsoevers"—

First, "Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report, if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things." (Ph. 4:8.)

These three commands of God, the three juvenile institutions, are striving earnestly and faithfully, lovingly and prayerfully, in storm or sun, in darkness or light, in disrepute or honor, in sorrow or joy to teach; and they are doing more than any of the uncircumcised dreams. And, "yet there is room," if there were more money, more appreciation, and more sympathy for each.

THE VALUE OF A FISH DIET

Fish Is Highly Nutritious.—Value of the Despised Herring.—Marine Stock Farms for Future.

Sir James Crichton-Browne, F. R. S., in the New York American.

Do the people of this country realize the dietetic value of fish?

How can they realize that next to meat it is the most nourishing food we have?

The races on the coasts of northern Europe and Asia nourish themselves on fish, but the Latin and Saxon races consume a relatively small amount of it, and the people of this fish-begirt island have not yet availed themselves as fully as they might do of the contents of the larder of the deep.

Formerly people ate fish one or two days a week, and on every day during Lent, when fish ponds were found in the gardens of every country house, and receptacles for capturing eels on most rivers, when royal tables were furnished with salted salmon, mackerel, sturgeon, whale, sole, turbot, oysters, carp, pike and herrings, and when in the reign of Henry III the price of soles was limited to threepence a dozen, turbot to six pence, the best pickeled herrings to 20 a penny, and oysters to two pence a gallon.

What we have to complain of is that the consumption of fresh fish has not kept pace with the increase of population. The affluent classes consume it as a breakfast and dinner dish, but there are still numbers of people, especially in rural districts, who rarely taste fish, and those who do, do not recognize the nutritive value of what are "unfortunately" called the coarser kind of fish.

The despised bloater contains the largest amount of nutriment for a given sum of any animal food, and two salt herrings contain as much animal protein—the only food constituent which will repair the waste of the tissues as need enter into the daily dietary of an ordinary working man.

Investigations show that in London the average weight of fish procurable for a penny in a fried fish shop is three ounces, while a sixpenny fish dinner proved to consist of 11 ounces of boiled cod, 8 ounces of potatoes and 1½ ounces of bread.

The working man's fried fish is, from the nutritive point of view, one of the best forms in which fish can be offered for human consumption; its sudden exposure to a high temperature in the act of frying retains the rich gelatine in fish, and also all those extractives which give their typical flavors to all the different kinds of animal foods. Frying and browning, it has been declared, bought out flavors in fish agreeable to most palates.

Supplies Needed Nitrogen.

The increased use of fish by the poorer classes would enable them better to resist tuberculosis. "Nitrogen starvation," as it is called, helps the disease, but fish yield plenty of nitrogen. Indeed, one successful means of cure for this dread disease is forced feeding with nitrogen.

The greater use of fish would not only protect the poorer classes from physiological pauperism, which leads to a condition when tuberculosis could get a hold on the system, but would contribute to a still further reduction of its prevalence.

There are indications that tuberculosis is slightly less fatal in east coast fishing towns, where fish food is largely consumed, than in inland towns of about the same population, where it is less available.

The increased supply of cheap fish which an extension of our fishing industry would secure, would conduce to national health and prove inimical not only to tuberculosis, but other diseases that attack the underfed.

The time will surely come when on sea, as we have done on land long ago, we shall exchange the chase in a large measure for the ranch and fold, when we shall have marine stock farms bordering all our coasts, and shall pride ourselves on our prize turbot and pedigree cod. Fish and their habits must be studied.

Fish Habits.

The destiny of the fish population in the ocean varies as does that of the human population on land. Fish seem to have their urban and their rural areas, the one with a crowded, the other with a scattered population, their distribution, like that of human beings, being determined by food supply.

But there appears to be no slumdom in the ocean, no such crowding as is inimical to growth or vigor, for the finest fish are found in the most thickly populated areas.

Fish, like human beings, have their excursion seasons. The areas in which they are domiciled are never wholly deserted, but well-to-do fish make it a rule to have an annual change of water.

Again, among fish, as among human beings, the young seem to be more restless than their elders.

Oysters, contrary to popular ideas, are not of high nutritive value, consisting of about 90 per cent. of water, but they are easily digested.

Their farming shows what could be done by scientific pisciculture.

Soles transplanted from coastal waters to the Dogger Bank grew from two to five inches a year. And in the case of many fish, it will before long become practicable to fatten them up as we do cattle for our Christmas markets.

THE LAST QUARREL

The last time that we quarreled, love,
It was an April day,
And through the gushing of the rain,
That beat against the window pane,
We saw the sunbeams play.
The linnet never ceased its song
Merry it seemed, and free;
"Your eyes have long since made it up
And why not lips?" quoth he—
You thought—I thought—and so 'twas done—
Under the greenwood tree.

The next time that we quarrel, love,
Far distant be the day
Of chiding look or angry word!
We'll not forget the little bird
That sang upon the spray,
Amid your tears as bright as rain
When heaven's fair bow extends,
Your eyes shall mark where love begins,
And cold estrangement ends—
You'll think—I'll think and as of old
You'll kiss me, and be friends.

November 16, 1880.

It was reported that an epidemic of epizootic was threatening the horses of the town. The Gazette printed directions for treating and avoiding the disease.

There was a rumor about town that a new evening daily paper was to be started.

Sleighing was indulged in and Tejon street presented a lively appearance.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

November 16, 1890.

The Gazette devoted considerable space to urging the construction of public parks.

The police raided Joe Moore's billiard hall, alleging that it was a gambling joint. A so-called disorderly house on South Cascade avenue was also raided.

Bill Nye advised a correspondent that the following was a good verse to write in an album:

Go, little booklet, go,
Bearing an honored name,
Till everywhere that you have went
They're glad that you have came.

WHAT THE PRESS AGENTS SAY

"THE GODDESS OF LIBERTY."

The synopsis of "The Goddess of Liberty," the stupendous musical production in which Mort H. Singer is starring Joseph E. Howard, the metropolitan musical comedy star, centers about Lord Jack Wyngate of England, who has been "the wayward son" and is commanded by his family to enter into an international marriage with a rich young lady from the states to recoup the [illegible] and rehabilitate the historic estate. A marriage is arranged by his cousin, Lord Algernon Banbury, with Miss Hope Butterworth, daughter of a wealthy New Yorker, Horace Butterworth, who acquires a fondness for athletics, and is rearing his family as though they were a batch of college athletes. On the arrival of Lord Wyngate at the Butterworth's country home in the Berkshire mountains he is subjected to the mercies of a couple of trainers and made the prominent figure of long distance races, polo games and other sports, in which Hope Butterworth, her sister and her cousin, Miss Phylis Crane, participate. Wyngate becomes intimately acquainted with Miss Crane while indulging in a wrestling match in which she throws him to the mat several times.

Thereafter a love match springs up between Miss Crane and Wyngate and he finds himself in the predicament of loving a poor girl, and being bound by a duty to his family, to marry her wealthy cousin. During the wedding rehearsal he arranges to have delivered to him a fictitious cablegram, which advises him that his brother who was supposed to have perished in Africa, has returned home to claim the title which he wears. The Butterworths do not want Wyngate without the prefix "Lord" and annul the impending match. Jack then explains that the cablegram was a ruse and openly acknowledges his love for Phylis Crane, whom he later discovers to be an heiress with an estate valued at half a million.

Joseph E. Howard will be seen in the role of Lord Wyngate, supported by a superb company numbering [illegible] This production [illegible] attraction at the Opera House on Saturday. Seats will be ready tomorrow.

LILLIAN RUSSELL.

Lillian Russell expressed herself on the question of American and imported gowns the other day, before the American Dressmakers convention in Chicago. It was expected that Miss Russell would tell them about her French gowns and dresses, but what she did say was that she never wears imported gowns. As Miss Russell explained it, she long since discovered the folly of rushing over to Paris and buying a lot of clothes that do not represent any real style. The truth is, your Parisian dressmakers have a very poor opinion of American women, and when you see some of the stuff they unload on gullible tourists, you can't very well blame them. The trick is to anticipate the American demand during the late summer. Once the rush is over, and these styles, created solely for American consumption are disposed of, your true French woman appears in the real Parisian style. This ruse seems to never wear out as they have been doing it for years. Of course, those in the know, like Miss Russell, have long since forgotten to be caught by any such tricks. Miss Russell says that American dressmakers can fill all her wants and that she gets smarter clothes along the style better adapted to her individuality and on [illegible] workman [illegible] the same [illegible] country [illegible] question of attitude but one of common sense and economy.

Lillian Russell comes to the Opera House Tuesday.

DAINTY GRACE CAMERON.

Our theatergoing public will be most happy to learn that dainty Grace Cameron with a splendid supporting company will appear at the Opera House Monday. The name of the play is "Nancy" and is from the pen of C. H. Kerr, who wrote "Over the Fence," "The Beauty Doctor," "Little Dollie Dimples," and a host of other good plays. This is one of the most important of this season's theatrical events, and there is no doubt that a large audience will be on hand to witness this clever performance. The supporting company is one of superior excellence, comprising such well-known names as Pheobe Cardownie, Jack Raymond, Christopher Nelson, Frank Watters and many others. The scenic, mechanic, and electric effects are particularly elaborate, and the production will be shown here in its entirety, the same as in all the metropolitan cities. One of the most pleasing effects in "Nancy" is the curtain of the first act. All through the last scene, Miss Cameron works with the theater and stage in absolute darkness, with the exception of the red glow of an old cook stove. In this particular scene, the dramatic situation is so intense that even though there is not a word spoken for nearly two minutes, you can hear a pin drop or a breath taken unusually strong by any members of the audience. During the action of the play Miss Cameron will sing several selections of the swingy order, and also of the big coloratura variety. In a recent criticism a Montreal paper says "Marcela Sembrich" alone has greater coloratura power of singing than Grace Cameron. The greatest of coloratura singers was Adeline Patti, who is now gone from us but Grace Cameron can run her a close second.

Miss Grace Cameron is not only a star in this country but in the old world as well, having toured South Africa, England, Germany, and France. Miss Cameron was educated for grand opera and speaks four foreign tongues as fluently as she does English. Her versatility is wide spread as shown by her many parts. Within two weeks she played Marguerite in the opera "Faust" with Savage Grand Opera company and Dapine, a boy's soubrette part in "Foxy Quiller" at the Broadway theater.

CAN'T KEEP CROWDS FROM MAJESTIC SHOW

If anybody who has not yet seen it has any doubt as to the quality of the Majestic show this week, the fact that the attendance at every performance the past two days has been far larger than could have been expected considering the frightfully disagreeable weather ought to be convincing. It is one of those shows that everybody is determined to see and, by the way, it should not be forgotten that its engagement closes Friday night to make way for the special Thanksgiving week billing secured by Manager Tammen, one of the very best of the season's Sullivan and Considine shows.

It is no exaggeration to say that, taking it altogether, no better vaudeville show was ever seen in this city than the one now at the Majestic and the hearty approbation of every audience indicates that its merit is appreciated. Just a line to those who may not have noticed what the offering consists of William and Weston, Dutch comedians, one of the best teams here this year. The Saad Dahduh troupe of eight Arabian athletes, in wonderful gymnastic feats. Maxwell and Dudley, in "The Singing Lesson," a classy musical comedy sketch. Grey and Peters in a trick and comedy cycling act that makes a hit with everybody. The Laxwells, a neat and nifty singing team. Bell and Richards in a unique instrumental act. The Majesticope—two sets of exclusive motion pictures. The Majestic concert orchestra—the finest of orchestra music.

One hundred minutes of the best vaudeville there and it costs next to nothing to see it. Can you afford to miss this show? Well, hardly.

CHORUS SCENE FROM "THE GODDESS OF LIBERTY"

Joseph E. Howard Heads a Large Company Which Will Present This Attraction at the Opera House Saturday.

WINTER NIGHT CLUB HOLDS MEETING TOMORROW NIGHT

The Winter Night club will meet tomorrow night at the Antlers hotel to elect officers for the coming year. Dr. Edward A. Steiner of Grinnell college, Iowa, will address the club on "The New Immigrant and the New Problems."

The officers who [illegible] nominated [illegible] [illegible] nominations are [illegible] president; Isaac Florian [illegible] president; Leslie J. Skelton, second vice president; George M. Irwin, third vice president, and W. W. Postlethwaite, secretary and treasurer. Several new members are to be elected.

FIRST REAL SNOW STORM HITS PIKES PEAK REGION

With a precipitation of but .15 of an inch in this city, according to the Colorado College weather bureau, and five inches of snow at Lake Moraine, Colorado Springs and vicinity yesterday experienced the first real snow storm of the season. The mean temperature for the day was 29, and 2 per cent of sunshine was discovered by the observing observer. The snow was of the wet variety that added nothing to the appearance of the streets.

The storm was general throughout the Rocky Mountain region.

EASILY BREAKS A SEVERE COLD

In Just a Few Hours All Misery from a Bad Cold or the Grippe Will Be Overcome.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

It is a positive fact that a dose of Pape's Cold Compound, taken every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken, will end the Grippe and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach, limbs or any part of the body.

It promptly relieves the most neuralgia pains, miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects, as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

Lion Fondles a Child.

In Pittsburg a savage lion fondled the hand that a child thrust into his cage. Danger to a child is sometimes great when least regarded. Often it comes through Colds, Croup and Whooping Cough. They slay thousands that Dr. King's New Discovery could have saved. "A few doses cured our baby of a very bad case of Croup," writes Mrs. George B. Davis, of Flat Rock, N. C. "We always give it to him when he takes cold. It's a wonderful medicine for babies." Best for Coughs, Colds, LaGrippe, Asthma, Hemorrhages, Weak Lungs. 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Hefley-Arcularius Drug Co., 21 South Tejon street.

Colorado Springs' Musical Club Course tickets are still on sale at the Willis Music Store. Tickets for the single concert by Kocian, violinist, go on sale this morning.

FANNY RAWLINS COMPANY UPHELD IN SUPREME COURT

Through a decision handed down in the state supreme court, the Fanny Rawlins Mining company, composed of Colorado Springs men, has been sustained in its suit for $10,000 against August Zobel, a mining man of Leadville. Zobel, it is said, has served time for perjury. The company is endeavoring to attach property held by Zobel in Leadville, to satisfy the judgment previously obtained in the district court of Lake county. Suit was brought on the ground that Zobel stole ore valued at $10,000 from the company's mine.

STRACHEN MAKES ORDER FOR EFFICIENCY IN THE SERVICE

An order recently issued by Postmaster Strachan, making slight changes in the city delivery service, becomes effective today, and as a result the carrier service all over the city will be improved.

Last August two new men were added to the carrier force, and since that time they have been helping out on the various routes. Beginning today, these two new carriers will begin delivering on routes of their own. To give the two new men full routes, others throughout the city have been somewhat shortened for the old men, and it is believed that the change will result in a quicker and better service to all concerned.

In changing the routes, the delivery service has been extended slightly in the western and northwestern parts of the city, and in Ivywild there will probably be two deliveries a day instead of one as heretofore.

TRUSTEES' MEETING NEXT WEEK

Tyson S. Dines, one of the trustees of the Myron Stratton Home corporation, will be in the city some time next week, according to Dr. D. H. Rice. At that time a trustees' meeting will be held and further plans in connection with the home will be discussed.

Answer This Question

When a remedy has lived for over thirty years, steadily growing in popularity and influence, and thousands upon thousands of women declare they owe their very lives to it, is it not reasonable to believe that it is an article of great merit?

We challenge the world to show any other one remedy for a special class of disease which has attained such an enormous demand and maintained it for so many years as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the famous woman's remedy for woman's ills. Unless it is a very good medicine and the claims made for it are honest, such a record would have been impossible — fraud or misrepresentations would long ago have been detected and the business gone into oblivion. Read this unsolicited letter: —

Corry, Pa. — "I am happy to write you about the benefit I received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before my marriage two years ago, I suffered something awful every month with pains and other distressing symptoms, and I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in dry form. Since then I have never been troubled with pain, not even a dull backache or headache, and it has helped me a good deal before childbirth. I recommend your medicine wherever I go." — Mrs. E. E. Ross, 112 E. Church St., Corry, Pa.

When a woman like Mrs. Ross is generous enough to write such a letter as the above for publication, she should at least be given credit for a sincere desire to help other suffering women. For we assure you there is no other reason why she should court such publicity.

We say it in all sincerity and friendship — try this medicine.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

SEATTLE MEN REOPEN ISABELLA MILL SOON

Will Install Improved Machinery to Treat Tailings Dumps. Buckhorn Again Active.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., Nov. 15.—Operations will shortly be resumed at the Isabella Mines company's cyanide mill on Bull hill by the Seattle parties who have secured a three-year lease of it. It is understood the tests made of the tailings dumps have been in every way satisfactory. Improved machinery is to be installed and the work of improvement will commence on the arrival of the mill experts from the northwest.

The Lee shaft and other properties of the Isabella company are producing heavily, 35 cars of ore having been billed out to date. Of this production 27 cars were loaded out from the Lee, 6 cars from the Empire State and 2 from the Buena Vista mine. The general average of the ore marketed has been slightly in excess of $20 to the ton.

Buckhorn Operations Resume.

Operations have been resumed on the Buckhorn, a Stratton estate property on Globe hill. The mine is under lease to Colorado Springs parties, and produced steadily in the fore part of the year.

Prospecting the Gregory.

SPECULATION STILL CENTERS IN U. P.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—It was generally believed that the resources embarked in the largest of today's transactions on the stock exchange were found in Paris. Yesterday's rumors that the listing of Union Pacific in Paris was near to accomplishment was denied, but the speculation still centered largely in that stock and in U. S. Steel.

The manner of execution of orders in Union Pacific was made the subject of criticism among brokers, owing to its appearance of manipulation. The high opening price was not exceeded and the subsequent sag in the stock and the unresponsiveness of the general list to the advancing tendency aroused the distrust which prompted selling. The three leaders were bid up again in the final dealings in face of the continued indifference of the list.

The poor earnings reported yesterday by the Great Northern for October continued that stock to be under pressure and it dragged other transcontinental railways down. Canadian Pacific suffered from the disappointment of speculative hopes of an extra disbursement.

The money position showed evident improvement and supplied the most substantial basis for higher prices of stocks. The issuance of the comptroller's call on the national banks seemed to release funds which had been held back apparently by the receipt of $5,000,000 gold from Brazil, but without effect on the London discount rate, which held steady.

Bonds were easy, total sales, par value $2,068,000.

U. S. 4's registered declined ¼ per cent on call.

Receipts—Wheat, 41 cars.

According to my grandmother's advice, I keep fruit cakes and puddings in a stone jar with an apple. The apple shrivels without decaying, imparting its dampness to the cakes. By renewing the fruit when necessary such cake can be kept in proper condition a long time.

WHEAT ON UPGRADE, FINISH IS STRONG

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Suspicion that considerable export business was being done at Winnipeg but not reported took hold of wheat traders today in Chicago and helped force prices up. The close was strong at a net advance of ⅞ @ 1 to 1⅛ @ 1¼ and also left both corn and oats ⅛ to ¼ higher than last night, but provisions were down 5 to 10c.

Wheat closed at almost the top for the day. From the start there was no time when prices were appreciably below yesterday's final quotations. The cables told of wet weather in France unfavorable for seeding, and also brought word of dryness in parts of Argentine where rains are needed by the growing crops. Primary receipts were small, and moreover did not reach the total of shipments from the same cities. The fact was noticed, too, that cash wheat at Baltimore had gone to a premium discount recently.

Even a big increase in the world's available supply had not the slightest effect in the way of causing a backward tilt. Uneasy shorts were covering right up to the last moment when the May option, after having ranged from 96⅛ to 97⅝, stood at 97⅛ @ ¼ a net gain of 1⅛ @ 1¼ a bushel.

Official forecast of wet weather rallied corn. May sold from 47⅝@⅜ to rallied corn. May sold from 47⅝ @ ¾ to 48⅛ @ ¼ and closed firm ¼ up at 48⅛ @ ¼. Cash corn was in good demand for old grades but very light for new. No. 2 yellow closed at 51⅜ @ 52.

Shorts in oats covered because of the advance in wheat. May fluctuated between 34¼ and 34⅝, closing at 34½, a net gain of ⅛ @ ¼.

Larger receipts of hogs made provisions sag. Last sales were 2½ to 7½ down for pork, 5 to 10 off for lard and at a decline of 5 to 7½ @ 10c for ribs.

Electropodes

For Rheumatism and Nervousness

A Santa Ana, Cal., druggist says, "A customer came limping in, his knees badly swollen with Rheumatism. I persuaded him to try a pair of Electropodes. Three days later he came back happy and said: 'I would not take $20 for my pair of Electropodes.'"

Your health and comfort are worth many times the price of Electropodes. Why not give them a chance to cure you? Electropodes eliminate all excess uric acid, and cleanse and purify the entire system. They strengthen nerves, increase circulation and cause each organ to perform its duty properly.

You can try Electropodes on [illegible]. Following is the contract which druggists sign.

NO NEED TO WORRY

From Judge.

One of New York's leading actors has an elegant country home out in Long Island, and he has spent a great deal of money in fitting it up with costly decorations and exquisite furnishings. The library was recently refurnished with a most expensive floor of beautiful parquetry, in which the owner felt a great degree of pride and of which he was scrupulously careful.

A few days ago an old friend of the good old road days learned how well he was prospering and went out to call on him. He had met with reverses financially, and also with the physical misfortune of an amputated leg, in place of which he wore a wooden one.

When the servant announced him in the library, the host went in and was horrified to see the man stumping about the floor with the wooden leg, in a tour of inspection of its gorgeous fittings. Speechless at first, he was finally able to breathe a gentle hint to his friend.

"I say, Henry, old fellow, hadn't you better keep well in on the rug. I'm so demedly afraid you might slip and get a fall."

"Oh, no! that's all right," assured the guest. "Don't you worry about me. I'm all right, thanks. There is a couple of nails in the end of the old peg, you know."

A PRAYER

Lord, not for light in darkness do we pray,
Not that the veil be lifted from our eyes,
Not that the slow ascension of our day
Be otherwise.

Not for a clearer vision of the things
Whereof the fashioning shall make us great,
Not for remission of the peril and stings
Of time and fate

Not for a fuller knowledge of the end
Whereto we travel, bruised yet unafraid,
Nor that the little healing that we lend
Shall be repaid.

Not these, O Lord. We would not break the bars
Thy wisdom sets about us, we shall climb
Unfettered to the secrets of the stars
In Thy good time

We do not crave the high perception swift
When to refrain were well and when fulfil;
Nor yet the understanding strong to sift
The good from ill

Not these, O Lord. For these Thou hast revealed.
We know the golden season when to reap
The heavy-fruited treasure of the field,
The hour to sleep.

Not these. We know the hemlock from the rose,
The pure from stained, the noble from the base
The tranquil holy light of truth that glows
On Pity's face.

We know the paths wherein our feet should press,
Across our hearts are written Thy decree,
Yet now, O Lord, be merciful to bless
With more than these.

Grant us the will to fashion as we feel,
Grant us the strength to labor as we know
Grant us the purpose, ribbed and edged with steel,
To strike the blow.

Knowledge we ask not—knowledge Thou hast lent,
But, Lord, the will—there lies our bitter need,
Give us to build above the deep intent
The deed, the deed.

—John Drinkwater in the London Spectator

REFLECTIONS OF UNCLE EZRA

Roy K. Moulton, in Judge

Some fellers go to a university for four years while others save time by simply buyin a pair of thick [illegible] glasses.

No man ever died in the poorhouse who carried 15 or 20 yards of string wrapped around his wallet.

The kind of a gal to marry is one who can look as neat at 7 o'clock in the mornin' as she does at 9 o'clock in the evenin.

You can't always tell a poet when you see him on the street. You are just as liable to pick out some feller with the toothache for one.

Job was a mere baby when you come to consider him for patience with the one-armed feller who has got a wife who buttons up the back.

I see another American gal has married a furrin duke who has got a coronet, but she will have to be fond of music to get along with him if he plays on the dang thing very much.

When a feller writes in violet ink he is either in love or he is runnin' a rural gold-minin' [illegible]

A [illegible] lettuce [illegible] an egg beaten [illegible] an amount of [illegible]

LONGACKER PREPARES RECEPTION FOR THIEVES

To catch those who rave been stealing to W F Jones of the south side, weeks, Harry W Longacker, Pearl street, Arensdale yesterday set a large bear trap, the chain of which is tied to a bell in his bedroom. Yesterday morning Longacker found tracks of two pairs of feet in his back yard, one set of tracks belonging apparently to a woman and the other to a large man. Four chickens were found missing. According to Longacker, this theft is the fourth that has occurred in two weeks and dogs and other deterrents have proved of no avail. He expects to secure at least one of the thieves before they secure any more of his pet fowls.

WOMAN WANTS APOLOGY FOR MUD ON CLOTHES

Because an express wagon belonging to W F Jones of the South Side, splashed a large quantity of mud on her new clothes and because the driver did not apologize Miss Marianna Fredericks of Manitou yesterday appealed to the police to arrest the man. Miss Fredericks was waiting for a car when the wagon drove across the street throwing a quantity of the mud on her clothes, which, she claimed, were new "day before yesterday." The police told her they would "do all they could" but they will not arrest Jones.

TOO MANY DRINKS COST PAROLED CONVICT 3 MONTHS

J J Leary, a paroled convict from Canon City, who was supposed to be working in this city, was found yesterday morning in a drunken sleep near the Midland yards. He was taken to the city jail and allowed to sober up. Officials from the penitentiary took Leary back last night. Leary's parole was to last but a week longer when he would have been freed, but under present circumstances he will have to stay in the pen another three months.

NEMDOOW IS SUCCESS

The Memdoow, in spite of the bad weather, is proving one of the most successful lodge affairs ever given in the city. The M W A. and the Women of Woodcraft were in attendance last night and the Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias will be the special guests this evening. Each evening there is dancing to entertain the guests in addition to the numerous side shows.

SCHOOLS CLOSED NEXT WEEK

The schools will be closed all next week for the Thanksgiving vacation. This will allow many of the teachers to attend the teachers' convention in Denver. A Thanksgiving program will be given Friday afternoon at the high school.

WORK ON 1911 DIRECTORY WILL SOON START HERE

Believing that better results will be obtained by starting the work earlier William D. Parks of New York is in Colorado Springs for R. L. Polk and company to start the compilation of the 1911 directory for this city, Colorado City, Manitou, Broadmoor, Ivywild, Roswell, Papeton and other points in this immediate vicinity. A preliminary canvass for Colorado City was started yesterday and the regular canvass of the residence district of this city will start January 1. The plan is to have the 1911 book in the hands of subscribers by May 1.

The Polk company will continue its offices with the Giles Mercantile agency and the work will be conducted as formerly when F. W. Sudbury was in charge of the work here. Mr. Sudbury is now in charge of the Salt Lake office of the company.

CONCRETE WORK IS DELAYED

The snow storm that continued throughout the greater part of yesterday stopped all work on the Burns theater so that the concrete work which Superintendent Rice had intended to begin was not started. This work will probably be undertaken as soon as the weather clears up.

To keep fruit cakes and plum puddings for months at a time, place them in a granite kettle, baste them well with thick strawberry syrup and then paste two thicknesses of brown paper over the top of the kettle. The syrup imparts a delicious flavor and keeps them moist.

Not Sisters

Now and again you see two women passing down the street who look like sisters. You are astonished to learn that they are mother and daughter, and you realize that a woman at forty or forty-five ought to be at her finest and fairest. Why isn't it so?

The general health of woman is so intimately associated with the local health of the essentially feminine organs that there can be no red cheeks and round form where there is female weakness.

Women who have been troubled from this trouble have found prompt relief and cure in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives vigor and vitality to the organs of womanhood. It clears the complexion, brightens the eyes and reddens the cheeks.

No alcohol, or habit-forming drugs is contained in "Favorite Prescription." Any sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. Every letter is held as strictly confidential and answered in a plain envelope. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N.Y.

Baby's Voice

Every woman's heart thrills at the cooing and prattling of a baby, and motherhood is her highest and purest joy. Yet the suffering incident to this great consummation of her life's desire, robs the anticipation of some of its sweetness. Most of this can be avoided by the use of Mother's Friend. This great remedy prepares the expectant mother's system for the coming event, and its use makes her comfortable during all the term. Mother's Friend assists nature in gradually expanding all tissues, muscles and tendons, it strengthens the ligaments, keeps the breasts in good condition, and brings the woman to the crisis in healthful physical condition. The regular use of Mother's Friend lessens the pain when baby comes, and assures a quick and natural recovery for the mother. For sale at drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers.
